24 Jackson Men Felled By Gas Fumes

JACKSON (AP)—Gas from a blast furnace overcame 24 men Friday night. One fell from a platform and fractured his skull.

Of the 24, only seven were hospitalized, including Chris Williams, 30, of Jackson, reported in critical condition after a 15-foot fall. The others were treated at hospitals and released.

It happened at the Interlake Iron Corp. plant here as an outdoor blast furnace, recently overhauled, was being put back into operation.

Gen. Supt. J. A. MacMillan said about a half-dozen workers were standing on a platform made of pipe and framework, 15 feet above the ground. The pipe carried the furnace gas to a stove and boiler. As a valve was turned, allowing the gas to flow through the pipe, some of it escaped and overcame the workers.

Other employees rushed to the rescue and they too were overcome, MacMillan said.

The gas, containing carbon monoxide fumes, was thick enough to overcome workers in the open air.

The last two men on the platform had to be removed by firemen using protective masks.

Those overcome were treated with oxygen at the scene and later sent to hospitals at Gallipolis and nearby Oak Hill.

Unfrosted Priest Gets Life Sentence

NANCY, France (AP)—Guy Desmoyers, 37, a former parish priest, was convicted today of killing his young mistress and her unborn child. He was sentenced to life at hard labor.

The jury deliberated an hour and 35 minutes. The prosecution had asked the death penalty.

The unfrosted priest told the court he recognized "all the faults for which I am blamed."

He added that, although defrocked, he remained a priest "and shall know how to atone."

Witnesses testified that he had killed Regine Fays shortly before she was to give birth to his child.

U. S. Latin Policy Change Is Urged

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—Ambassador to the United States Victor Andrade of Bolivia says this country must change its Latin American policies to meet changing conditions.

Andrade said U. S. earnings on Latin American investments in one year approximate all that has been given or loaned to Latin America since 1945. Increased economic aid to Latin America, he said, "would be what the financiers call a capital plant investment."

Engineer Union Under Fire in Senate Probe

CIO-AFL Prodded To Clean Up Outfit After Disclosures

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Rackets Investigating Committee prodded the AFL-CIO today for fast action to clean up the Operating Engineers Union.

Chairman McClellan (D-Ark) sent the labor federation a transcript of testimony in which union members denounced officials of the union's San Francisco and Long Island, N. Y., locals.

In four days of testimony, the Senate committee has heard witnesses charge officials of San Francisco Local 3 with misuse of thousands of dollars of union funds. Other witnesses accused officials of Long Island Local 138 of taking payoffs from employers, dictatorial methods, beatings, and frameups against members who opposed them.

McClellan practically wrung from William C. Dekoning Jr., the Long Island local's president, a promise to "do everything in my power" to reinstate three ousted members of the local who had challenged his rule.

AFTER THE hearing, Committee Counsel Robert F. Kennedy conferred with Dekoning. He quoted the union chief as "willing to straighten out anything the committee thought should be changed, subject to the union's constitution." Kennedy said he didn't know what that meant.

Recessing the hearing until Monday, McClellan held all concerned under continuing subpoena.

McClellan ordered Dekoning to report in 10 days what he has done to reinstate ousted union members William Wilkens, Walter Miller and John Dekoning, a cousin of the local president.

Wilkens and John Dekoning had joined fellow unionists in testifying about goon tactics, payroll padding, payoffs, and employers voting in union meetings. They also charged that former convicts had received a membership privilege—the right to vote—denied most other local members.

Charles Skura, another member of the local's reform faction, won a promise he will not be tried by the union on charges of crossing a picket line. He called the charges a frameup to silence him. Skura swore he was 12 miles away at the time of the alleged crossing. A committee aide, Jerome Adlerman, said he confirmed this.

Peter Batalias, another dissident member of the Long Island local, testified that six "strong arm men" beat him into unconsciousness because he offered a motion at a 1955 meeting to let more members vote.

Rapid Increase in College Enrollments Seen for Ohio

COLUMBUS (AP)—The Ohio Commission on Education Beyond the High School predicts a 1970 college enrollment of 174,922, nearly double the 1958's probable figure.

The fourth in a series of open letters, issued by the commission Friday, said studies show full-time enrollment in 1956 was 96,113 and that the figure will probably jump to 99,183 this year.

In order to meet the increased needs, said Dr. John C. Baker, president of Ohio University and chairman of the commission, "facilities of all kinds must be increased and new institutions must be more widely distributed in the state than they are now."

The letter gave these as some of the conclusions reached by the commission:

"It is assumed privately financed institutions will increase enrollments over the next 10-year period, within the limits of their resources and policies. Provisions for student aid should help insure a flow of gifted students to both independent and public institutions."

"A FORMULA should also be devised to give municipal universities assistance in facing the rapid and inevitable growth in their enrollments."

"State universities should continue to expand and modernize as rapidly as possible for the increasing enrollments."

"Branches of state universities are being established in a number of areas where higher education facilities do not now exist. At present no state funds are available for the 20 such branches in existence."

"Certain branches by permissive legislation may become community colleges. A plan for financing these in other states is one-third state support."

"One proposal to which we have heard no opposition is that several technical institutes and two-year colleges be established immediately in those areas where they are most needed. The commission may recommend that the Legislature appropriate funds to help operate these units."

That question was asked Friday night of a panel of experts brought together at Rockhurst College.

U.S.-Soviet Swap Of Solons Talked

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two senators today approved a reported proposal that members of Congress and the Russian Supreme Soviet exchange visits to watch each other at work.

It was understood the proposal was made to Vice President Nixon on Friday by Soviet Ambassador Georgi Zarubin in an unusual 40-minute farewell call. Zarubin is returning to Moscow next week. He is expected to become a deputy foreign minister.

In the absence of any official confirmation, there were indications Nixon and State Department officials were favorably impressed with Zarubin's idea.

Swapping of legislative delegations would require approval of Congress as well as the State Department.

Sen. H. Alexander Smith (R-N.J.), a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said he is "very favorable" to the idea of exchanging delegations from Congress and the Russian Parliament.

"I think an extension of cultural and other exchanges with Russia would promote better understanding," he said.

SEN. KEFAUVER (D-Tenn) thought the proposal a good idea.

"I think we ought to be willing to meet them on even terms," Kefauver said. "They ought to let our representatives go around there. If they do we ought to extend them the same courtesy. The more understanding that is reached at the people level and the congressional level, the better it will be for all."

"Of course it ought to be kept in mind, and I'm sure the American people would, that the mem-

Ohio Air Units To Maneuver In Michigan

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—For the sixth straight year, most units of the Ohio Air National Guard will spend two weeks on active training duty at Phelps Collins Air National Guard Base, Alpena, Mich.

The training period this summer will be Aug. 16-30.

Dates were selected Thursday at Lansing, Mich., during a conference at the Michigan adjutant general's office among representatives of Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Virginia and Michigan, states whose Air Guard units use the Alpena base.

Ohio was represented by Brig. Gen. E. H. Briscoe, commander of the 121st Fighter-Interceptor Wing, and Col. Frederick Wenger, wing executive officer. Both are from Columbus.

As in the past, Ohio will send almost 2,000 officers and airmen and about 100 planes to the northeastern Michigan site. All Air Guardsmen except an aero-medical unit from Akron-Canton and communications men from Zanesville, Blue Ash and Springfield will go to Alpena.

Units attending training in Michigan are from the 121st Fighter-Interceptor Wing, 555th Band and Columbus headquarters state staff. During the year, they train two days a month at Columbus, Akron-Canton, Toledo, Mansfield and Springfield.

This year, the Ohioans will be flying newer F84 jet fighters.

bers of their Supreme Soviet are not freely elected representatives."

Sen. Mansfield of Montana, assistant Democratic leader and a Foreign Relations committee member, said Congress would have to consider all aspects of the proposed exchange.

Sen. Capehart (R-Ind), another Foreign Relations committee member who has visited Russia, said he thought it might be all right to exchange legislators "but I don't see anything that would be gained by it."

Zarubin sought the meeting with Nixon and asked the vice president to convey his good wishes to President Eisenhower. The Russian diplomat said he did not ask for a White House appointment because he said he knew the President was busy.

Annexations By Cities Said Harmful

COLUMBUS (AP)—Township annexation by cities has its evils, a Columbus attorney believes.

Speaking before the 30th annual convention of the Ohio State Assn. of Township Trustees and Clerks, Thomas W. Applegate urged delegates to form a united front against "indiscriminate annexation."

The attorney emphasized he is not against "sensible, orderly annexation" by cities. But he said in many cases it is just a device to get township tax wealth and bring in new industry.

The result of "unplanned, unwise" annexation, he continued, is that frequently city "relief rolls increase, child welfare problems increase and there are increased burdens on our police and fire departments and on our school programs."

Another convention speaker, State Rep. Roger Cloud (R-Logan), said revision of Ohio annexation laws is vital. But he added that the Legislature has been "reluctant to prescribe rigid rules, preferring to leave those matters up to county commissioners or other administrative officials."

One reason for that, said the Ohio House speaker, is that sometimes a solution helpful to one subdivision of the state creates or aggravates problems for another.

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Martin H. Daniels, Jr., 17, of Philadelphia, was acquitted by a jury Friday night of charges that he conspired with two other teen-age boys in murdering his father.

The 35-year-old father of six sons was shot to death last June 22 as he sat on the steps of his South Philadelphia home. A 14-year-old pal of Martin's fired the fatal bullet.

Atty. John Patrick Walsh based his successful defense on the boy's emotional crisis caused by the cruelty of the father.

Boss Is Away, Bookkeeper Gay

Woman, 41, Admits $23,000 Shortage

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—A 41-year-old woman awaiting sentence for grand larceny really lived things up before the law stepped in.

A prosecuting official said Mrs. Gladys L. Hall, bookkeeper for a trucking firm, gave employees $100 bonuses on the Fourth of July, lent them money to buy homes.

She also bought herself a $6,000 car and an organ, raised her own salary from $65 to $200 a week, and hired her husband as general manager for $450 a month.

This all came to about $23,000. Asst. County Prosecutor William C. McLean paid Mrs. Hall a dubious compliment Friday.

"She is the most convincing con artist I have ever seen," McLean said.

Mrs. Hall pleaded guilty earlier this week.

McLean said her operations were carried out while her boss, Dr. C. A. Rudisill, was on vacation in Europe.

HE SAID she wrote Rudisill that the general manager of the firm was incompetent and that Rudisill was so impressed he fired the manager by mail from abroad. It was then, McLean said, that Mrs. Hall hired her husband, Dr. W. Hall.

A bank shortage of $20,000 in the firm's account had been reported to Rudisill before he left for Europe, but Mrs. Hall persuaded him the bank had made an error.

When Rudisill returned, the shortage was $23,000, and creditors were complaining.

Rudisill went to police and brought grand larceny charges when Mrs. Hall did not produce the books on her operations.

Hall also pleaded guilty.

The old general manager is now back on the job.

DETROIT (AP)—The United Auto Workers Union may strike one of the Big Three car makers two months ahead of the time for new contract talks.

The UAW executive board Friday approved calling a strike at Chrysler Corp.'s Detroit Dodge main plant in a dispute over layoffs and work standards. The union served a five-day strike notice on Chrysler.

The strike threat was announced during the final session of the union's special three-day convention that approved 1958 bargaining demands, including a profit sharing plan, and set up a $50 million strike fund.

The 3,000 delegates were adopting a resolution on how to deal with what the union calls speed-up practices in the auto industry when UAW Vice President Norman Matthews announced, "We will have a showdown at Chrysler."

MATTHEWS, director of the union's Chrysler department, said a strike at the Dodge main plant "will shut down all Chrysler plants." The plant is a major supplier of parts for all Chrysler divisions.

Matthews said the company contended that UAW members did more work at Ford and General Motors plant and this put Chrysler at a competitive disadvantage.

Matthews said he would join in negotiations between Dodge Local 3 and the company in an effort to head off a strike. C. Pat Quinn, president of the local, said Dodge main employed 33,000 in 1953 but was now down to 10,500. A strike would idle about 70,000 Chrysler workers in the Detroit area.

The convention voted overwhelmingly to raise an additional $16 million for the union's strike fund by a special $5-per-month increase in the regular $3 basic dues for three months. The fund now has about $24 million.

Union leaders said the strike fund could be increased to $50 million by June, when current contracts with the big three run out, by borrowing $10 million from UAW locals.

Face-to-face bargaining talks are due to start around April 1. The convention approved a plan to rebate the 16 million dollars in special dues to the members if no major strike develops. UAW President Walter P. Reuther said he favored the rebate.

2 Military Aides Ousted By Leaders

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP)—The ruling junta fired two of its military officers Friday night and as a result won a pledge of support from the civilian patriotic group that sparked the successful revolt against Dictator Marcos Perez Jimenez.

The civilian leader, young newspaper reporter Fabricio Ojeda, said the ouster of the two officers who had been closely identified with the fallen regime meant there was now "absolute political unity."

Ojeda joined with the junta in appealing for an end to rioting and vandalism that has swept Caracas since Perez Jimenez fled early Thursday. But angered mobs still seeking vengeance against the dictator's supporters and dihard adherents to Perez Jimenez continued to roam the capital Friday.

About 300 persons have been reported killed and 1,000 wounded in disorders that began with a general strike against Perez Jimenez Tuesday.

THE STRIKE and subsequent street fighting was led by Ojeda's civilian underground and soon won over younger military officers. Wednesday night senior officers, led by Rear Adm. Wolfgang Larrazabal told Perez Jimenez it was time to go. He fled to the Dominican Republic.

Larrazabal and four other officers then took over. The civilian group withheld support, however, and demanded free elections as soon as possible, as well as other guarantees that freedom had returned.

The civilian rebels and a strong young officer faction opposed two junta members, Army Col. Roberto Casanova and Air Force Col. Abel Romero Villate.

They were credited with important roles in suppressing a Jan. 1 revolt by the air force and some army units which touched off three weeks of ferment leading up to the general strike.

Under pressure the junta dropped the two while adding two civilians, industrialist Eugenio Mendoza, who Larrazabal said would be sworn in today, and engineer Blas Lambert.

Ojeda then broadcast from the presidential palace that the civilian group had thrown its support to the junta. The young officers, who had not been organized before the revolt developed were not immediately heard from.

The two ousted colonels and their families were flown to Willemstad in Curacao, a Dutch island about 100 miles northwest of Caracas. They expected to go to Miami today.

Larrazabal's junta, which already had abolished censorship, dissolved the hated secret security police, replaced all police in the streets with soldiers and ordered evidence gathered for prosecution of those responsible for torture of political prisoners.

Interior Minister Virgilio Torrealba Silva ordered state governors to make certain all political prisoners had been freed.

New Practices Revolutionize Farming

EDITOR'S NOTE: This article, prepared by Dr. W. C. Heinz, president of the Dr. Heinz Co. Inc., Bloomington feed plant, was the basis of his talk before the Washington C. H. Rotary Club last Tuesday. Believing that it will be of interest to farmers throughout The Record-Herald circulation area, we asked his permission to reprint it here.

By DR. W. C. HEINZ

I wonder how many of us here today realize the tremendous changes that have taken place in our agricultural picture since World War II. We read and hear a lot about the revolutionary changes in our farm programs, our over production, the migrations from the farm and the various opinions about farm values. Those of us who are engaged in agricultural services must of course analyze the changes taking place and the future trends so that we can serve more efficiently in our own particular field.

Down through the history of civilization man has been plagued with famine, pestilence and the problem of subsistence, chiefly associated with a shortage of foodstuffs.

In a short period of 20 years this nation has learned to raise enough grain to produce sufficient meat, milk and eggs to provide abundant food for its own people, as well as supplying many of the food deficit areas of the world with American farm products for adequate diet. Our people are among the best fed in the world.

On the other hand, our potential enemies, the communist nations of Soviet Russia and China need our foodstuffs urgently. Their number one problem is to provide sufficient food to feed their teeming millions and to prevent widespread malnutrition and discontent.

MUCH IS WRITTEN about our shrinking farm population due to migration to the cities for more gainful employment. Also, that much of our farm land is being developed into subdivisions for our growing industries and expanding cities. Some of this may be true but here is a very significant fact:

With less land under cultivation in 1957 than ever before and despite acreage controls and soil bank restrictions we had one of the highest yields of farm crops in our history. Also the highest yield per acre. This shows our tremendous agricultural potential and our efficiency.

Land values continue at high levels and will remain so as long as the yield per acre from our soil pays an equitable return on capital and labor invested. . . and the dollar remains inflated in value. Farm operations are not expected to yield tremendous profits, neither do gilt edge bonds. But good land, like good bonds supports the dollar and provides security for those who own them.

Farm prices have maintained themselves very well during the current business recession, especially the prices of livestock, milk and eggs. There is no reason why this should not continue for the immediate future, unless large quantities of surplus grain are dumped on open markets.

So far as the national economy is concerned our planned road building and home building programs during the spring should help to correct our present recession. Also lower interest rates will help.

OHIO'S FERTILE farm lands will always command premium prices because we are the first and nearest agricultural state to the large population areas of the east and the grain - deficit sections of the east and south. The diversification of industry and agriculture in Ohio and productive Fayette County underwrite the future growth and welfare of our people.

Now the feed and grain business, of which I have been a part for many years, is very close to actual farm operations and we get a good perspective of what is taking place. When we came to Fayette County ten years ago after a disastrous fire in Cincinnati, we shipped 75 per cent of our feeds by railroad freight to eastern livestock and poultry sections. The remaining 25 per cent moved by truck in Ohio, Indiana, northern Kentucky and West Virginia.

Today it is reversed and we ship 75 per cent by trucks into adjacent areas and about 25 per cent by rail. Our truck business continues to grow in areas where we make one day or overnight tail gate delivery. Quick service is necessary today. Railroad shipments are slow and costly. It takes a week to ten days to move a car into some east coast cities.

The feeding of livestock plays a vital part in the farm economic picture and we feel that the trend in farming will be toward specialization. The farmer who specializes in livestock production will maintain a high level efficiency in breeding stock selection, feeding and management. He will make full use of labor - saving machinery, feed new type rations in one convenient package rather than several different feed ingredients. He will produce meat type animals to meet modern consumer demand for less fat and less waste. He will keep his stock free of worms with tested self - feed wormer pellets. He will produce meat faster and cheaper on a cost per pound basis.

More grain will definitely be marketed through livestock because of lower parity prices and reduced government support of farm prices and income.

WE LOOK for farm machinery to become larger, more complex and perform a greater variety of labor - saving jobs. Take the combine, for instance, which we have been using for small grains. Now a picker head has been installed and it is used to pick corn. Would it not be feasible to add a crusher to this combine machine to crush the cobs and blow them into a wagon while the shell corn is blown into a second wagon? Just think how much this roughage would be worth in a cattle or lamb feeding program. Also the cobs could be crushed for bedding or to be sold for mulching plants, used for poultry litter or blown back onto the fields and plowed under.

I look for an increase in the use of the picker - sheller and expect more shell corn will be delivered to the elevator to be dried, stored, ground, mixed and pelleted. The complete pellets efficiently balanced into a high energy feed will then be fed to animals in a form that cannot be unbalanced.

The production of dry matter from our forage crops will be stepped up from 1.5 tons per acre to 4 and 5 tons per acre through soil conservation, green manure crops, humus and fertilizer.

There has been a great increase in the use of grass silage. This is good feed because it preserves the vitamins and unknown growth yet completely understood by our nutritionists and agronomists. This dry feed can be greatly improved.

Baling hay is a tremendous advance over the old method of loose haying. However, when we mow forage, make in into windrows and dry it in the sun we lose as much as 8 per cent protein and over 50 per cent of the vitamins. Here also is room for improvement.

THE PRACTICE of chopping forage crops and putting up silage has disadvantages in that it is so high in moisture and has so much bulk. It is low in total dry matter that contains the nutrients to get maximum results.

We are not making full use of our forage crops nor doing it economically. For years animal scientists have wondered why "Old Bossy" suddenly gave an extra flow of milk when turned out on lush pastures in the spring. Many of us know this is true from actual practice and we now breed our cows for fall freshening to get the benefit of higher fall milk prices, plus this extra volume of milk from 60 days of good spring pasture.

We know the reason isn't a matter of proteins or minerals, because these are incorporated in the dry dairy feed. So it must be a vitamin or unknown factors that we have not yet identified or produced synthetically.

Right here is the place for a machine to process the fresh green forage with all its tremendous feed power into a pellet containing 5 or 6 per cent moisture and 15 to 20 per cent protein, with all its vitamins. Such a produce would save the farmers a lot of money in proteins, vitamins and think how convenient it would be to handle, store and feed. A 20 by 30-foot bin would hold 175 tons of pellets as against 35 tons of baled hay. And the pellets would preserve the quality.

The most important feature of such a pellet is the extra profit it returns. The Doane Agricultural Digest for January 1958 reports a test from the University of Illinois of two consecutive winter feeds of 1-3 alfalfa hay and 2-3 timothy hay mixture fed as the only ration to cattle:

On pellets average daily gain per head 1.73 lbs.; Feed per pound of gain 9.06 lbs.; Feed cost per lb. 13.59 cents; Gain per ton of feed 220 lbs.;

On long or chopped hay—Average daily gain per head 0.62 lbs.; Feed per pound of gain 17.32 lbs.; Feed cost per lb. 17.32 cents; Gain per ton of feed 116 lbs.

When you think that such great improvement results from pelleting a hay mixture, is it not possible to get phenomenal results by pelleting fresh green legume forage?

I feel this is probably in the near future because already there are machines that pellet rations containing 75 per cent black strap molasses.

NOW TO CONTINUE further on the subject of feeding pelleted grain feeds to livestock. This is a rapidly growing practice based on dollars and cents return and supported by many reliable tests at experiment stations, research farms and farm tests. They all show that animals prefer pellets and that they step up gains, save feed and increase profits.

The Farm Journal of January 1958 reports that pelleting increased gains and feed efficiency with beef cattle from 10 to 20 per cent. Doane Agricultural Service of October 1957 reports that cattle gained 100 lbs. on 996 lbs. of pelleted feed and it required 1144 lbs. of the same feed when fed in loose form.

This same bulletin carries a report from University of Illinois showing lambs gained from 8 to 55 per cent more with 9 to 26 per cent less feed on various lamb feeding tests. The lambs preferred the pellets 3 to 1.

These figures are too significant to be overlooked by modern progressive farmers and a tremendous increase is taking place in the use of Pelleted rations. The bulk pellets are more convenient to handle, feed down easily in the feeder and eliminated waste at the trough or feeder. Above all they speed gains and increase profits.

BY FEEDING pellets and crumbles to broiler and fryer chicks it has been made possible to produce 2.5 and 3 lb. birds in eight and nine weeks on about 2.5 lbs. of feed per pound of bird.

Feeding pellets to laying hens increases feed intake, increase egg production and keeps in on a steady level. Hens cannot pick out coarse or fine pieces and unbalance their ration.

The greatest profits we feel will come from feeding pellets feeds to pigs and hogs. We know from our own experience that it is now possible to produce a pound of pork with three pounds of feed. We have just completed a test on a large farm in Bloomington with 170 hogs that were farrowed after Labor Day. They were even, top finished hogs (weight 199 1/2 lbs.) that went to market in 4.5 months. The cost per lb. of pork was 9 cents. Each pound of feed cost about 3 cents. They made money. This included all grain, protein, antibiotic, vitamins, minerals, arsenic acid, animal fat, wormer and the cost of processing and pelleting. Pellets are more appetizing and increase feed intake.

Each pellet is a balanced ration . . . animals cannot unbalance it.

Pellets assure proper daily intake of vitamins, minerals, antibiotic, hormones, chemicals, animal fat and other pre-mixed ingredients, as well as protein, fat and fiber.

Pellets feed down easily and prevent waste at the feeder.

Pellets speed up digestive processes.

Pellets cut down storage space and save labor in handling.

Pellets increase gains, improve feed efficiency and step up profits.

NOW IN SUMMING UP this broad subject which I have so briefly touched we must take into account that the present administration is committed to a reduction of parity and lower support programs. This will encourage many grain producers to raise and feed livestock.

Our feeding practices will be geared to produce more lean meat and less fat.

We will produce more short -ed cattle on pelleted rations supplemented with hormones for faster, more efficient, gains.

There will be continuous expansion in the size of our farms to larger units, but there will always be family farms where efficient operation will provide a profitable and pleasant way of life. Also many of the industrial workers who live in rural areas will continue to raise livestock and poultry to supplement their income and supply their table.

Machinery will become more complex, more costly and save more man hours.

Migration from the farm will continue.

Population growth will absorb more agricultural production.

Farm grains will be improved in feeding value by the continuation of nutrition advances and higher use of antibiotics, hormones, chemicals, animal fat, extra calories.

The removal of worms from cattle, sheep and swine with self-wormer pellets will grow in use. Gooe feed in wormy hogs is like a hole in a gas tank. . . It leaks away and its so simple to prevent.

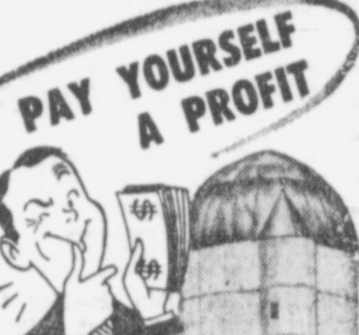

The major portion of our livestock feeds will be pelleted, handled in bulk and fed in convenient self-feeders.

Forage crops will produce valuable feeds through improved harvesting, storing and feeding systems with less labor and less cash outlay.

Now I'm not sure whether we can put as many satellites into space as some other nation, but I'm very, very sure that the American farmers can out-produce any people in the world. Our farms are the food basket in peace times and our secret, most powerful, weapons in war.

So as Tennyson has said: "Be Not The Last To Accept The New Nor Be The First To Discard The Old."

Down on the Farm

2 The Record-Herald Saturday, Jan. 25, 1957
Washington C. H., Ohio

Econogram for Farmers

EDITOR'S NOTE: These news highlights in economics and public affairs relating to agriculture are summarized by agricultural extension economists at Ohio State University.

Most indications of business outlook point to a leveling out in early 1958 with trends pointing upward again by fall. During 1957 the post-war boom apparently reached its peak. Capacity to produce goods in many lines caught up with and passed current demand for those goods. At the same time credit was tightened, thus restricting demand and government had drastic cuts in defense contracts. Continued high levels of personal income, spending and construction expected to be strengthening factors. Unemployment expected to reach over 4 1/2 million during 1958.

GENERAL BUSINESS prospects still of concern to many people. Look for more unemployment before it reaches peak in late winter. Still a rather general feeling that slump will not last through 1958. It conditions do not become worse than now expected, it should not lower demand for farm products much.

AVERAGE WEEKLY overtime was 2 hours in December. This is 1.1 hours less than a year ago. At the end of 1957 unemployment amounted to 5.2 per cent of the labor force (seasonally adjusted rate). This compared with around 4 per cent average for the last 2 years.

RETAIL SALES in U. S. during 1957 exceeded the record high of 1956 by 5 per cent. This is in terms of dollar values. Total retail sales fared somewhat better than department store sales in spite of the fact that department stores made an outstanding recovery in December.

DISPOSAL of surplus farm products reached record volume in 15 months ending September 30, 1957. About $1.4 billion of commodities were removed from the surplus stocks. However, crop inventories remain high. Surplus stocks mounted to $7.2 billion by Nov. 30, up $150 million from preceding month but down $1 billion from year ago. Disposal of crop surpluses during 15-month period valued $5.3 billion compared to $3.8 billion for like period a year earlier.

SHEEP AND LAMBS on feed for market on Jan. 1 were 8 per cent less than year earlier in U. S. For 11 corn belt states the sheep and lambs on feed Jan. 1 were 1 per cent less than year ago but 5 per cent more than Jan. 1, 1956. In Ohio, sheep and lambs on feed are down 6 per cent from year ago and down nearly 9 per cent from 1956.

POTENTIAL layers on farms in January were down 6 per cent from year ago. (This includes hens and pullets of laying age plus pullets not of laying age). Look for egg prices most of this year to be maintained fairly well. Two things to watch for in future releases are: (1) How much replacement chick numbers are up from year ago and (2) When such increases begin. This will be an indication of next fall and winter production.

U.S. POULTRY SOLD in West German market receiving favorable comment. Price and quality favorable. Promotional efforts were to sell chicken at a Fine

Fayette County Girl At Landrace Meeting

A Fayette County girl and her mother were among the honor guests at last week's annual meeting of the American Landrace Assn. in Springfield, Ill.

Miss Gloria Cleland was given a place in the spotlight as Ohio Pork Queen. Her mother, Mrs. Lee Cleland of near Bloomington, accompanied her to the convention, which was highlighted by a report that Landrace hog registrations increase 97 per cent last year to bring the total up to 23,571.

The report also noted that "this tremendous expansion makes Landrace the fastest growing swine breed in America and the third largest breed in the nation at the present time."

Membership in the association, the report said, increased 87 per cent last year and now totals 2,231 member-breeders in 35 states, Canada and Hawaii.

The four major Landrace breeders in Fayette County are Cleland, Paint Twp., and K. K. Knox, E. E. Jenks and Dr. R. D. Little all of Jefferson Twp.

Foods Fair instead of giving away samples.

SOYBEAN STOCKS on farms largest on record at 188 million bushels in January (13 per cent above last January). Farmers held larger than usual percentage of the record 1957 production. Total production in 1957 estimated at 480 million bushels. Most beans were harvested by Jan. 1 although there were a few exceptions.

NEW STATE ASSOCIATION PRESIDENT — A. R. Rankin, Jasper Township, should know whereof he speaks as the new president of the Ohio Commercial Swine Producers Assn. First of all, he has been raising hogs for nearly a quarter of a century with his father, Roy Rankin, on their 183-acre farm. Besides, he is strictly a "commercial" or "market" hog producer. Right now he is sending around 400 cross-breds a year to market. He prefers a cross of Hampshire, Yorkshire and Duroc. Rankin was elected by the state association Thursday at Urbana. He is now vice president of the Fayette County association. The Record-Herald photographer snapped this picture of him while he was feeding his pigs.

IFYE Alumni Organized

COLUMBUS — Records of the International Farm Youth Exchange program, designed to promote better understanding and co-operation among youth of many Ohioans who have gone overseas in the past eight years under the program, Beatrice Cleveland, Ohio IFYE project leader, said.

The Ohio IFYE alumni met in Columbus this month to elect officers for their group. Harvey Warrick of Darke County is the new chairman of the IFYE Alumni Organization. Warrick was a representative to Austria in 1951.

The vice chairman, Harold Ritzenhouse, is from Delaware County. His trip was to India in 1953. Mrs. Carl Ruff, the former Jean Stille and wife of the Union County associate agent, was elected secretary. Mrs. Ruff was once the home economics agent in Columbus County. She was an IFYE to Norway in 1953.

The purpose of the IFYE Alumni Organization is to assist with the Ohio IFYE program. It is in charge of orientation of delegates, promotion of talks describing visits to the foreign countries; it helps raise funds and serves as an advisory group to the IFYE program, explains Miss Cleveland.

PRINCESS SANDRA SCOTT

Dairy Princess To Get Spotlight At Dayton Meeting

The American Dairy Princess and Will A. Foster will share starring roles at the banquet of the National Dairy Council in Dayton next Tuesday.

The princess, Miss Sandra Sue Stout, will be making her initial appearance in this area. Miss Stout is 5 foot and 5 inch, 120-pound brunette with flashing green eyes was chosen as the dairy princess at the American Dairy Assn. annual contest in October. She hails from Piedmont, Okla.

At the NDC meeting, which is in Dayton for the first time, the Diet-Heart Problem and Increasing Consumption of Dairy Foods will receive equal consideration and discussion.

Sharing the spotlight with the top name speakers discussing these vital problems will be local people.

John Vermilya, associate Montgomery County agent; 4-H club members; Dr. Eugene Barnes of the Dental Assn.; Mrs. Shellhaas, director of cafeterias of the Madison-Trotwood Schools and some third graders; and Dick Marquet, football coach at Wilbur Wright School in Dayton will be on the Tuesday afternoon program. They will depict with skits and graphic illustrations what Dairy Council's teaching of better nutrition through dairy products has done for them.

Miami Valley Milk Producers Assn. General Manager Leslie C. Mapp will bring greetings to the assembly. Included will be dairy industry leaders and Dairy Council directors from most of the state of the union.

Dairy farmers are being especially invited to attend.

About 90,000 tourists from the United States have booked passage to Sweden in 1958.

500 Barrows Aim of Show

Fayette County Girl To Speak as 'Queen'

COLUMBUS — Several hundred of the state's best meat-type hogs will compete for prizes and show ribbons at Ohio's spring barrow show, set for Feb. 22 at the Madison County fairgrounds in London.

Herbert Barnes, Ohio State University Extension animal science specialist, says show officials hope for 500 barrows from 100 exhibitors. Last year 95 exhibitors from 29 counties entered 417 barrows.

An all-Ohio swine banquet at the fairground the evening of Feb. 21 will serve as a prelude to the show. B. P. Sandles, manager of the Clark County fair, and Gloria Cleveland of Washington C. H., Ohio Pork Queen, will speak.

This year's show rules are about the same as last year, according to Barnes. One exception is that crossbreds will compete in two classes instead of one, with one champion crossbred to be named.

Barrows will be sold at auction at the close of the judging. Last year 17 packers and livestock market representatives bought the animals for an average of $2.38 a pound, well above market price.

THE JUDGING contest for members of the show audience will be repeated this year. Visitors will be given cards on which they may mark the order in which they think the show's champions will rank in cut-out value.

Adults and juniors will compete for judging honors in separate divisions, with winners to be announced Feb. 26 at a carcass day program to be held at the Braun Brothers Packing Co. in Troy.

The carcass show, a barrow show follow-up, will include the carcasses of blue ribbon winners at London, plus the carcasses of animals nominated by other exhibitors.

V. V. Overturn of London will serve as barrow show chairman. The event is sponsored by the Ohio Swine Growers Council, with member associations including the Ohio Swine Breeders and Feeders Assn., Ohio Commercial Swine Producers Assn., and the Swine Improvement Assn., of Ohio.

Round about Fayette County

By B. E. KELLEY

Three of the 14 interchanges on the 300 foot free-way from Columbus to Cincinnati, as now projected, are in Fayette County, and at each interchange several acres of land probably will be required for the loops used for safe entry from the secondary highways.

One of these apparently will be on Route 38, 1 1/2 miles north of Yatesville, just south of the Green Rd., which is the second road leading westward from Route 38, north of Yatesville.

The interchange, if the consulting engineer's recommendations are followed, probably would be on the C. W. Shough, formerly the Green, land, which occupies both sides of the road at that point.

The interchange on Route 70, 3 1/4 mile east of Jeffersonville, at the State Rd. (Route 734) probably would require even more land than involved in the Route 38 interchange.

This land may be from the Mrs. Lela May Wissler and V. J. Bock lands.

The Route 35 (Dayton Rd.) interchange would be at or near the intersection of Route 729, and probably would involve lands owned by Madeline Patch, Jessie C. Coon and George Colaw.

In addition to the three interchanges, the freeway, as now indicated, will cross some 10 other roads, necessitating overheads or underpasses.

In the meantime widening and otherwise improving some of the intersecting roads where interchanges are planned, is a probability.

I understand that already options are being sought, at or near the interchanges planned.

BLACK DIAMOND

From R. B. McCoy, Wayne Township, I have obtained additional information about the "Black Diamond Railroad" which was projected across southeastern Fayette County around 65 years ago.

It seems that one route surveyed for the proposed railroad was through the Greenfield area and northeastward, crossing the McCoy farm on the Gormley Rd., then northward, crossing the CH&D at Fairview, and leaving the county near Plano (Dog Town)".

It is recalled that another name for the proposed road was the "Front Royal and Tidewater Railroad", indicating that the proposed road was a very extensive railroad building proposal at that time.

The engineers making the survey aroused the enmity of the landowners in the county, and stakes were pulled up and destroyed as soon as the engineers were out of sight.

Just where the railroad was to extend to the southwest, I have not been able to ascertain.

"GRANDMA PICKING GEESSE"

It used to be a common expression among the boys and girls when snow was falling to say that "grandmother is picking her geese", indicating that the feathery snowflakes were like loose feathers falling when Grandma really was engaged in that chore.

However, most of the grandmas lost few feathers when they picked their geese, because they were experts in this work.

Geese were deprived of their feathers for making pillows, featherbeds, bolsters and cushions generally, and it required a lot of feathers to make the 40 or 50-pound featherbeds which were popular in the days when most of the people slept in cold bedrooms.

Grandma, in picking her geese, usually held the big birds on her lap, with head held securely between her knees, and in this way she avoided the pincer-like beaks of the geese who were naturally greatly aroused while undergoing the sometimes painful process of giving up their feathers.

Some of the grandmas were able to pluck the feathers so expertly that there was not a squawk, for if the work was properly done little pain was suffered by the geese.

In years gone by, geese were kept as much for their feathers as for their eggs and meat.

COLONIAL CUSTARD

This recipe is supposed to have been used in colonial days, with a little modern touch applied, and it sounds so good I am giving it to you.

Two cups of milk, three eggs, 1/4 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon vanilla and 1/4 cup (unsulphured) molasses.

Scald milk, beat together, gradually adding scalded milk and stirring constantly. Pour into five or six buttered custard cups, and sprinkle with nutmeg. Set custard cups in shallow baking pan; place in oven. Fill pan with hot water 3-4 inches from top of cups. Bake in slow oven (300 F) 50 minutes, or until tip of knife, when inserted in center, comes out clean. This makes five or six servings.

OFFICIALS 95 YEARS AGO

From a copy of the Fayette County Herald published April 9, 1863, I take the following lists of county officials in office at the time:

Common Pleas Judge, Robert M. Briggs; probate judge, L. D. Willard; prosecuting attorney, M. Pavey; sheriff, William Smith; clerk of courts, Richard Millikan; auditor, J. P. Robinson; treasurer, A. E. Silcott; recorder, Joseph Plumb; surveyor, Jacob Creamer; coroner, Jacob Carr; county commissioners, Jacob A. Rankin, Thomas Thornton, Ira Yeoman; school examiners, D. C. Eastman, H. H. Edwards, C. H. Kellogg. This board met on the third Saturday of every month.

Many of the above names are of ancestors of present day residents of the community, and all were well known at the time the Civil War was under way.

The first American ocean-going ship was "The Virginia," an open-deck vessel of 30 tons, which was launched in Maine in 1607.

Beef Promotion Plan To Be Discussed

Fayette County Cattle Breeder Featured Speaker at Convention

A Fayette County cattleman, who devised a method of "selective breeding" for his Hereford herd to develop families (through blood line records) for fast growth and economical gains, will deliver one of the principal addresses at the annual meeting of the Ohio Cattle Feeders Assn. meeting next Thursday in the Southern Hotel in Columbus.

While Robert C. Haigler, whose farm is on the Sedalia Rd. north of Bloomington, said he will not go into this phase of his own operations in his president's address, it is a foregone conclusion that he will have to describe it many times personally to other cattlemen during the convention, because the plan worked out by him and his father, Charles Haigler, about 10 years ago has been watched with interest by breeders.

A chain store representative, a congressman, a business analyst and a college professor also will speak to the cattle feeders at their meeting.

W. E. Fitzgibbon, Cincinnati, chain store meat merchandiser will speak on "The Retailer Looks at Future Beef Merchandising and Sales" and Rep. William R. Poage of Texas, will give a progress report on beef promotion legislation at the morning session following Haigler's address.

In the afternoon, T. J. Obal, Michigan business analyst, will speak on "The Business Climate in Commerce and Industry" and Prof. C. C. Culbertson of Iowa State College will discuss the value of high moisture in cattle feeding.

HAIGLER said today that, in his address as president of the association, he will review the accomplishments of the association during the past year and outline some of the problems he foresees for the future.

He said he will incorporate in his talk some of the salient features of a letter he sent to association members two months ago.

In that letter, he noted the increasing trend to "buy now and pay later" following World War II which went with increased government spending and easier credit. During this time, he wrote, farm income was declining and that this created the farm problem that resulted in legislation, which often aggravated the problem, being hurriedly written.

Politicians, he wrote, failed to realize that farmers are industrious people and soon the warehouses, built to store products for possible lean years, were full and depressing prices.

HE POINTED out that limiting acreage of certain crops led to shifting of crops to new areas and the creation of surpluses of other feed grains. The plan, he said, increased fertilizer sales, storage charges and transportation costs, but expressed doubt that it benefited the farmer.

The Soil Bank, to which farmers looked with hope, had loopholes which were used by those seeking political advantage and financial gain at expense of the farmer, he said.

As a possible remedy, he referred to the voluntary self-help plan to promote the sale and consumption of beef instituted by the association, adding that "it is our belief . . . that the American people can be encouraged to eat better and more beef and our livestock will help reduce the surplus."

He pointed out that the Ohio association was instrumental in forming the Ohio Beef Council, a

New Plane Devices Speed Farmer's Work

WOOSTER — J. E. Henry, agricultural engineer with the Ohio Agricultural Experiment Station, has developed two attachments to make it easier to spread farm chemicals by plane.

One is a metering device in the form of rotating, fluted drum which feeds out pesticides, fertilizers or seeds. It makes it possible to apply granular fertilizer, for instance, at the rate of about 12 to 200 pounds per acre by changing the speed of the rotor. Henry says this meter, coupled with a variable speed drive and installed in a light airplane, has given "quite satisfactory performance" over the past two years.

Henry also has designed a new distributor used for applying different materials such as granular fertilizer or granular insecticides.

non-profit corporation, "which will cooperate with councils in other states. . . In the National Beef Council's campaign to promote beef."

However, the plan for voluntary deductions for a fund to promote beef could not be put into effect, he wrote, until the Packers and Stockyards Act of 1921 is amended.

'Variety Meats' Stretch Dollar

Liver, for Example, Rich in Vitamins

Budget-conscious shoppers find two-layer bargains in variety meats. These meats offer bargains in both price and nutrition. Extension specialists in Marketing Information for Consumers at the Ohio State University, Columbus, recommend such meats as dollar stretchers as well as a source of variety in meal planning.

Variety meats include liver, heart, tongue, kidneys, brains, parts of the meat animal not normally included in the term, red meat.

Take liver, for example. Beef liver, of course, comes from mature cattle. It is somewhat coarser in texture than that of young cattle. It usually costs less, too. Baby beef liver comes from young beef animals. It has a moderately fine, velvety texture, is somewhat more tender than that from mature animals, and is generally medium priced.

Calves liver is from immature cattle of, perhaps, less than one year of age. It has a fine, velvety texture and a very delicate flavor. It, too, is generally moderately priced.

Veal liver comes from the young calf. It has a light color and very fine, velvety texture, and the most delicate flavor of all. It is higher priced than the others, too.

Pork liver costs least of all. It has the most pronounced liver color than any other.

All liver is high in iron content and is also an excellent source of vitamin A and riboflavin. It contains as much protein as regular flavor and is somewhat darker in cuts of meat, and more minerals.

Many Medical Advances Seen In Years Ahead

Almost all the people in every community are interested in what medicine is doing and what advances are being made from year to year.

This can be attested by the fact that whenever most any group, men or women, get together for social conversation, somebody's illness or their own, or general health conditions, are a part of the talk.

With the new year of 1958, all manner of predictions have appeared in one form or another. A significant and interesting prognostication came forth in a recent issue of the American Medical Association Journal, written by Dr. Julian P. Price, a practicing physician and an AMA trustee. He forecasts a number of the changes that are expected to take place in medicine, some probably within the next decade, other perhaps within 25 to 30 years.

While a great many people are sincere in their belief that the best care of the sick, as a general rule, has come through the old reliable general practitioner — "the family doctor," there has been a noticeable growing trend toward specialization. Dr. Price's article supports this view.

He contends that there will be an increase in group practices in clinics which are staffed and equipped to furnish complete care for the ambulatory patient. At the same time, a new type of general practitioner will emerge to care for those who want individual physicians for themselves and their families. His work will consist of internal medicine, pediatrics and psychiatry, with office procedures in orthopedics, gynecology and surgery.

The hospital building program will continue, with the emphasis on more hospitals in suburban areas and the smaller communities of the country. The large metropolitan hospitals will add special wings for the care of the convalescent, the chronically ill, and the patient who needs rehabilitation.

On the scientific side of medicine, there will also be many changes, Dr. Price predicts. Due to the increasing number of older people, degenerative diseases will become of greater and greater concern to the physician. Most of the communicable diseases, tuberculosis included, will probably be eradicated. Leukemia and certain types of cancer will be curable. Diabetes will be treated without injections. Various mental diseases will be controlled through drugs.

There will be better understanding of all manner of physical plagues — arteriosclerosis, coronary disease, hypertension, and so on. And electronics and atomic energy will be used extensively in the diagnosis and treatment of disease.

It is a bright prospect that Dr. Price presents. There can be small doubt that independent private medicine will achieve these and perhaps many other great medical goals.

The Fine Art of Persuasion

John W. Hill operates what is regarded as the largest and most impressive public relations firm in the world, with offices in many countries and a big show in New York.

So John Hill has written a book to explain what public relations is all about, particularly corporate public relations which is his specialty. The purpose of the book is obviously to clarify that corporate public relations is a profession, with the disciplines and limitations of a profession.

His says in this book, "Corporate Public Relations":

"It is possible in a free country, without greatly stretching the imagination, to read 'public opinion' for 'government.' In a nation with free elections, the near-equaling of the two terms is justified. For, while public opinion can no more assume the making of government decisions than stockholders can divide all the matters weighed by management, our American system is such that delegation of power and of confidence is the equivalent of taking action."

This is strong language and has never been quite true in the United States where the administration in power has never altogether been dependent upon the public opinion of the moment nor could it respond to it by any constitutional method.

It would be more true to say that governments in some Central American and South American countries respond sensitively to public opinion, often expressed in the guise of rebellion, and it certainly is true of France where no government can last long because of the vagaries of public opinion, however devised.

Nor can it be substantiated that "delegation of power and of confidence is the equivalent of taking action." Were it so this would be an absolute monarchy.

The most recent of President Eisenhower's press conferences, in which he slapped down a reporter for a question on John Foster Dulles, showed how those who possess actual and constitutional power need not worry about whether their views represent a delegation of public confidence.

However, what is brought out here is that public opinion is both wooed and raped in the United States and that it is the function of public relations to do both.

John Hill, his Calvinistic upbringing asserting itself, in his book, resents the abuse of the term "public relations," by a press agent boosting a floozie into a personality, although he would regard giving a corporation or a trade association the policy advice by which they get a good name as quite proper.

He says:

"Thus corporate public relations may be described as the management function which gives the same organized and careful attention to the asset of good will as is given to any other major asset of the business."

That, after all, is what a gal like Eva Bartok wants — good will. And to many in the forensic occupations it is worth millions of dollars the same as for a corporation.

In a word, it is a bit snooty to assume that there is something superior about the corporation, although there are those who believe it and become very stuffy when it is suggested that selling soap or gasoline or steel is nothing more important than selling a voice on the movies or a body in a night club.

What it comes to is that if there is a demand there is a supply and the profit is greater if the demand is greater than the supply.

All the good will in the world will not help the United States Steel Corp. sell steel during a depression, and that was shown in the last depression when the United States government went to the aid of the corporation was like putting in on relief.

By George Sokolsky

This book is interesting because what it really does is analyze the art of persuasion and explores the techniques, the object being not only to influence Americans to accept public relations as a noble art like the ministry of the law, but also to stabilize the profession so that those who earn their livelihoods a little off beat, will be stricken in their consciences by their evil conduct and will behave. The purpose is a worthy one and the book is therefore valuable.

One reason that we lack effective leadership is that too many leaders are manufactured in the offices of public relations counsel.

If anybody says that that is good, how does he explain the present crop of leaders?

Electric Incubator Inventor Dies

GREENVILLE (AP) — Ira Petersime, credited with the invention of the mammoth electric incubator for the hatching of poultry eggs, died Friday in nearby Gettysburg. He was 83.

The Petersime invention, perfected in January, 1923, with the assistance of his son, Ray, made possible the development of large-scale commercial hatching.

Petersime was one of the original backers of the heifer project, through which thousands of heifers have been shipped to needy farm families throughout the world. With his son, he sponsored the settling of some 1,300 refugee families in America through the Displaced Persons Act.

Middletown Boy, 3, May Lose Eyesight

MIDDLETOWN (AP) — The parents of Roy Eugene Nickell are trying to get enough money to take the boy to New York City to see a specialist who may save the sight of his right eye, and perhaps his life.

Roy, who will be 3 in April, has a tumor behind the eye. The father, a steel worker, said the family savings have gone for medication. He said he was told there was one man, at the Eye Institute in New York, who could make final diagnosis, determine whether the tumor is malignant, and whether the sight of the eye can be saved.

There's a toy museum in London where more than 3,000 playthings from many centuries are on display.

Diet and Health Why Women Usually Get Older than Men

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

Picture America as a nation populated entirely by women — no men at all.

While this will never happen, of course, we are heading in that general direction. Men are dying faster than women.

The death rate for men is substantially higher than for women in most of the 64 major causes of death in this country. Pneumonia, influenza, cancer, tuberculosis, accidents, even homicide — they all claim more men than women.

Three Categories

Only in three categories is the female death rate significantly higher: cancer of the breast and genital organs and diabetes.

These figures are for 1950, the most recent ones I have available. And since difference in the male and female death rates has been widening steadily over the years, it probably is even greater now.

Back in 1920, the death rate for men between the ages of 45 and 54 was only 10 per cent higher than the female death rate. By 1950, it was 78 per cent higher!

Benefit Both Sexes

Naturally, both men and women have benefited from our medical advances. Science has prolonged the lives of both sexes.

Nevertheless, men are dying faster — and younger — than women.

Why? We have several theories, but no actual proof.

For one thing, men in general get around a lot more than women and are therefore more frequently exposed to disease. Then, because they are the male animal, they are more aggressive and lack the caution of the female. Consequently, they meet more accidental deaths. Alcoholism also is much more prevalent among men.

Bottle-Up Emotions

Men have a tendency to bottle up their emotions. Ulcers, high blood pressure and heart disease may be the result. Women, on the other hand, resort to tears and hysterics to relieve their emotions.

Men are also more subject to the stress of today's speeded-up world.

Better Resistance

Perhaps women biologically can resist disease better than men can. But whatever the other reasons for their longevity, there is one additional fact of which I am positive: women take better care of themselves than do men. Women will consult their doctor quicker and follow his instructions better than will their male counterparts.

Women, it appears, simply have more sense.

QUESTION AND ANSWER

G. T.: What causes a bone infection?

Answer: An infection of the bone, or osteomyelitis, most commonly occurs in children as a result of the spread of a bacterial infection from the throat to the bone. In adults, the infection usually follows some form of injury to the bone, such as a fracture or a gunshot wound.

Tamed H-Bomb To Aid All World

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Taming the hydrogen bomb could give the world unlimited power for millions of years.

The announcement of British progress on the problem at Harwell makes it plain that commercial use is still years away, but the fact that scientists have unlocked some of the secrets is of vast importance to the world of the future.

Here's why:

We are rapidly using up the coal and oil we burn to warm our homes, run our autos and produce electrical energy.

The energy locked up within the hearts or nuclei of atoms, however, is virtually inexhaustible.

Atom hearts contain the basic material or mass of everything, living or lifeless. Some of this atomic mass can be transformed into energy. This is what happens in A-bombs or atomic power plants.

The nucleus of an atom of uranium-235 (or certain other heavy atoms) is split or fissioned into two or more pieces. But all these pieces together aren't as heavy as the original single nucleus. Some of the matter was changed into useful energy.

The world doesn't have inexhaustible supplies of the heavy atoms that will split this way. One estimate is that all such reserves would give us energy equal to 10 to 100 times the amount of all the world's remaining coal.

In fusion, lightweight atoms combine to create heavier ones. Two atoms of double-weight hydrogen become one atom of helium, for example. The heart of this helium atom weighs less than the two original hydrogen atoms. Some of the original mass turned into energy.

It takes tremendous heat and pressure to produce the fusion.

The peacetime problem is to get enormous temperatures and materials and methods to keep H-fusion going at a controlled rate and draw off useful heat from it. This is what scientists hope to solve. They are making some progress.

Controlled H-fusion means we could use double-weight hydrogen, called deuterium, as our principal fuel without dangerous radioactive by-products. The world's oceans contain enough to power civilization for millions or even billions of years.

And deuterium is not costly to get from the seas. Cost has been estimated as making deuterium less than 1 per cent as expensive as coal as a fuel.

Mason-Dixon Line 190 Years Old

By JOHN F. SEMBOWER

Central Press Assn.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa. — One hundred and ninety years ago a couple of peace-making English mathematicians and surveyors unwittingly created "Dixie."

They were Charles Mason and Jeremiah Dixon who drew on actual boundary "straight as a die," which for nearly two centuries, has constituted one of the most famous of mythical boundaries in the world, that between the North and South, U.S.A.

At times the "boundary" has been marred by bloodshed, as in the "war" between Marylanders and Pennsylvanians in 1737, which gave rise to the Mason and Dixon surveying project itself and in the War Between the States of the 1860s, but most of the time it has been the occasion for much good-natured banter, song and mellow tradition.

Kings Charles I and Charles II of England started it when they grants to Lord Baltimore and William Penn were so ambiguous that, taken at the high water mark of each, Philadelphia could have been in Maryland or Baltimore in Pennsylvania.

IT MIGHT more properly be known as "the Rittenhouse line," because in 1763, after the home of a certain Cresaps had been burned during a pitched battle between 14 men who claimed it was in Maryland and 55 who maintained it was in Pennsylvania, Gov. John Penn, grandson of William Penn, commissioned David Rittenhouse, Philadelphia instrument-maker, astronomer, mathematician and friend of Benjamin Franklin, to settle the dispute by surveying the line at "the 40th degree of north latitude from the equinoctial."

After Virginia and Delaware got into the controversy, Mason and Dixon were sent for all the way from England so that they would be unbiased, but they found Rittenhouse's surveys so accurate that they accepted them.

LED BY an Indian guide, the Englishmen pushed west from the northwest corner of Maryland until the guide crossed a warpath of hostile Shawnee and Delaware tribes who were settling a territorial dispute in their own way, and he refused to proceed one step farther.

This was a point about 244 miles west of the Delaware river, and the party turned back eastward and began drawing the line at precisely 39 degrees, 43 minutes and 26.3 seconds north latitude, setting milestones marked with M on the Maryland side and P on the Pennsylvania side.

Every fifth milestone bore the coat of arms of William Penn.

Man Talks Self Into Jail Term

TOLEDO (AP) — Fifty-year-old Kaiser Kwiatkowski literally talked himself into his 102nd term in the workhouse since 1931.

Kwiatkowski was arrested on a drunk and disorderly charge Thursday night a few hours after he finished a 30-day term for getting drunk Christmas Eve.

He started talking the minute he appeared before Judge George N. Kiroff.

The judge imposed a 10-day sentence and a $250 fine for contempt. Kwiatkowski talked on.

The judge imposed another 10 days and $250.

Kwiatkowski talked on. The judge gave up. He imposed 10 days and $250 more and continued the drunk and disorderly case.

IT'S SO EASY TO PLACE A WANT AD.

Mason-Dixon line—actual and mythical.

and Lord Baltimore, and some still are in existence. Actually the Mason-Dixon line proper now is the southern boundary of Pennsylvania, exclusive of the arc boundary between that state and Delaware. It was in the famous congressional debates of 1819-1820 over Henry Clay's Missouri Compromise between the free and slave states that the impression spread that the line reached much farther west.

This extensive interpretation now accepted by some historians projects the line westward along the Ohio river from its intersection with the Pennsylvania boundary to its mouth, thence the eastern, northern and western boundaries of Missouri, and then westward along the parallel 36° 30', the line established by the Missouri Compromise to separate free and slave territory in the Louisiana Purchase except Missouri.

So it is just a myth of sorts, named after Englishmen whose monikers got connected with it in the same way that a geographer, Americus Vesputius, put the stamp of his name on the New World instead of that of Christopher Columbus.

It might have been only "the Rittenhouse line" marking the southern boundary of Pennsylvania, but who cares when voices are raised in song, Way Down South in the Land of Dixie?

You're Telling Me

By WILLIAM RITT

Three paintings made with his feet (while wearing shoes) by William Green, a London artist, are now on exhibition in England. Don't know what the art critics think—but Bill, no doubt, got quite a kick out of 'em.

Green does his foot paintings by mixing lamp black and kerosene, pouring the goop on ply-board then shuffling about in the mess. Pretty solesful stuff.

The artist calls his heel-and-toe masterpieces Asphyxiation —, II and II. We, too, find the idea pretty stifling.

To get an added effect, the artist is quoted as saying, he sometimes set his pedal paintings afire. This, declares the man at the next desk, sounds like the best idea yet!

A Russian explorer claims he spotted an Abominable Snowman on two different occasions. That's like having the same nightmare twice.

An Englishman traded his 20-year-old auto for a 10-year-old donkey. Didn't anybody—or anything—balk at the deal?

If your dog bites the postman mail deliveries to your house will stop, the Postoffice rules. Better teach Fido the only safe things for him to try to lick are postage stamps.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

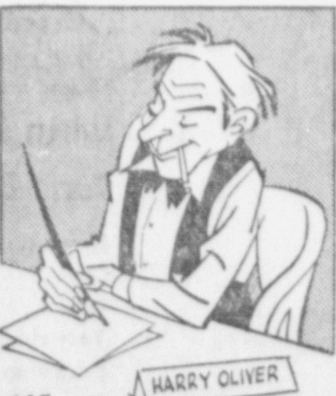

WHEN CALIFORNIA'S Harry Oliver launched his unique "Desert Rat Scrap Book" in 1946, he ran this "Editor's Prayer" on Page 1 of his first issue:

"Dear Lord: I only want you to go 50-50 with me. If you will keep me from getting greedy, I will try to give my 60,000 readers (Lord, I stretched it a little) clean, good fun and fan their interest in the many wonderful things you have put out here in your desert.

"You keep me from getting too graspy, and making this paper a monthly instead of a quarterly. I in turn promise to keep people interested in plants, animals, and beauty of this wonderful country. I will only tell authentic lies. I will be the best god-darn publicity agent for your desert you ever had."

Grist Mills Once Business Centers

By B. E. KELLEY

One of the earliest grist mills in Fayette County was erected on Paint Creek at Rock Mills, where a brush and log dam was thrown across the stream 100 yards upstream from the present bridge. A log mill building was erected in 1817 and 1818.

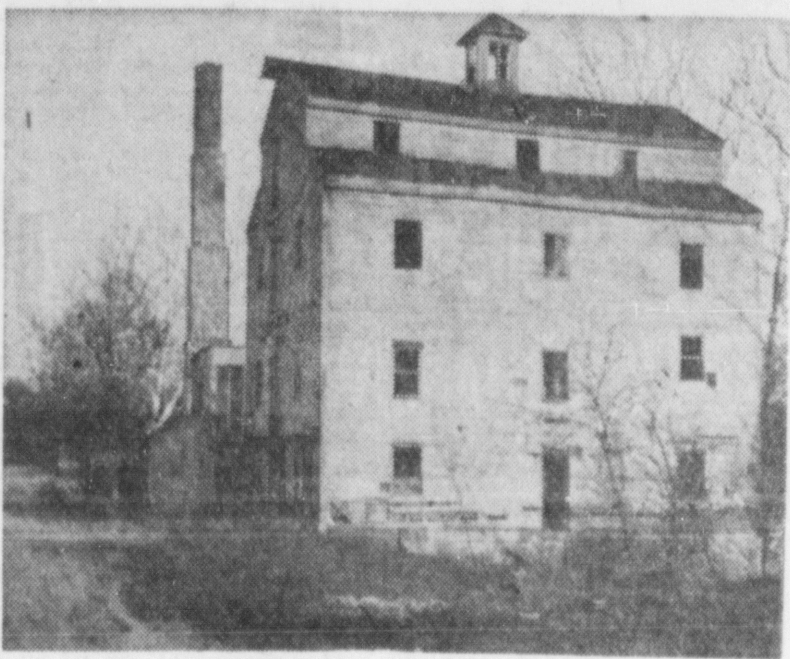

To supply a long-felt need, Walter and James Yeoman constructed the dam, mill and mill race, and fitted the crude long mill with machinery for grinding wheat and corn, and for sawing lumber.

The venture was a success from the beginning, and the two men had all of the grinding and sawing they could do.

So great was the number of customers that they sometimes waited a week before their turn came, although capacity of the mill was 100 bushels of wheat daily.

THE YEOMANS operated the mill until 1825 when James Yeoman died, and after that a number of persons had the mill, some of them for many years.

Finally the old log structure was torn down and in its place was erected the mill building shown above, which I snapped 30 years ago. A few years later it was demolished because it had fallen into a bad state of repair, having been abandoned 40 or 50 years ago.

THIS OLD GRIST MILL, which formerly stood at Rock Mills, was abandoned more than 40 years ago and torn down 25 years ago. The first mill on the site was a log structure erected in 1817-18.

The picture was taken from immediately north of the building and about opposite the dam, which had increased in length from an original 25 feet to about 250 feet.

The last persons to operate the old mill were Clint and Addison Day. The former is still living.

SOME OF the older residents of the community recall when they took wheat and corn to the mill to have it ground into flour and meal, and what wonderful whole-wheat flour and unprocessed meal they obtained!

Samuel Day first operated the mill when it fell into the hands of the Day family, and then Losson Day, a son, was the miller for years, later moving to Jeffersville where he ran the mill for many years.

After Losson ceased to operate the Rock Mills venture, his brothers, Addison and Clint, took it over and were the last persons to keep it in operation.

The saw mill, which was formerly a part of the mill, appears to have been discontinued when the new frame structure was built.

The old stone foundation of the mill still stands, mute evidence of days when the structure was one of the most important spots in southern Fayette County, and a great gathering place for people of the community.

One of the old mill stones, still in existence, apparently had been imported from France, although it could have been brought here from along Racoon Creek in southwestern Gallia County, where many millstones somewhat similar to the French product were made.

THE EDGE of part of the millstone protrudes from under the west end of the concrete steps leading into the Frank Harper store, and the remainder of the stone, which was six to eight feet in diameter, is owned by Frank Garringer, and is on this premises in Rock Mills.

The site of the old mill is now owned by Leslie Sollars.

Rock Mills obtained its name from the Yeoman mill and from the cliffs of limestone along Paint Creek at that point, where the stream has cut down 15 to 20 feet during the many thousands of years it has flowed through the area.

It was first called Rockyville, and the first settlers were Stephen Yeoman and family, who located at the spot in 1815 and purchased 1,400 acres of land in the community.

They were natives of New York State.

In 1848 Ira, son of James Yeoman, built a store and dwelling combined, just below the mill and conducted a store there for four years. He sold it to Milton Yeoman, who in turn sold it to S. N. Yeoman, and it was owned and operated by T. H. DeWees, and later by Wesley DeWees until about 20 years ago.

400-Mile Drive Brings Freedom

AUSTIN, Minn. (AP) — It cost 400 miles of traveling but Harry C. Caidis, Minneapolis attorney, said it was worth it after he won freedom from a traffic violation charge.

Returning from a business trip two weeks ago, Caidis was tagged for a stop sign violation by a highway patrolman. He denied his guilt at a preliminary hearing Jan. 13 and asked for a jury trial. That took 200 miles of driving here from his home and back.

He drove the second 200-mile trip, presented his story to a jury and won acquittal.

School's Newspaper Ads Ruled as Legal

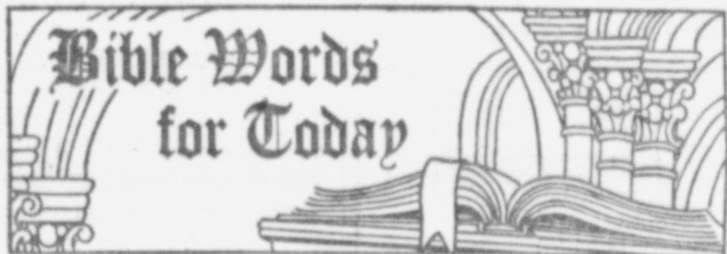

COLUMBUS (AP) — State Auditor James A. Rhodes has ruled that newspaper advertising for adult evening school classes is a legitimate school expense.

The question originated in connection with the suburban Sylva school district.

An aide to Rhodes wrote that "since the statute provides for the holding of evening classes and tuition for attendance in evening schools, any such advertising expense incident to the installation and establishments of such schools could lawfully be paid."

FROM THE SAMUEL WINSTON collection designed by Roxane comes a dinner dress of taupe silk satin that makes two strong fashion points: the soft Keg skirt and fur banding. Neckline is edged with luxurious Russian sable.

PSALM 139:8 — "If I ascend to heaven, thou art there! If I make my bed in Sheol, thou art there!" (RSV)

The God of the Bible is the "hound of heaven" who tracks man relentlessly in whatever "heavens" or "hells" man may construct for himself.

This news is both comforting and disturbing. It is comforting in that neither "height nor depth nor anything else in all creation will be able to separate us from the love of God in Christ Jesus our Lord." (Romans 8:39) It is disturbing in that there is no height or depth where a man is free from the claims of God upon him.

Whether we experience the "news" as "comfort" or as "disturbance," it is a truth — that not so simple lesson we learned in childhood, that "God is everywhere."

You Need The Church-The Church Needs You

MAKING PREPARATION

...but maybe too late!

True we have our furnaces fired, our machinery greased and men to man the tasks... but where is God? Nations are tampering with His creation and threatening every day to blow it to bits... with no thought of God.

His church is on the corner and His servants are telling His simple story but it means little to men bent on destroying things and people.

No nation can curse God and get away with it.

He will paralyze them as He did the serpent.

Likewise, He will deliver them as He did those in bondage long ago when they seek Him. Whenever and wherever men humble themselves God will make a way. Why not spend some time making preparation for a greater day... the final day?

YOU IN THE CHURCH
THE CHURCH IN YOU

Character is a by-product of the church. It is here that young and old alike are showered with benedictions that fortify and influence for a better citizenship and a stronger democracy. In the church the ministerial are molding religious character. Statesmen today declare that the church alone can furnish leadership to handle the affairs of state in these perilous times. Then we with our children should go to the church of our choice on Sunday. "You in the Church and the Church in you" form a combination for good. Be a regular CHURCHGOER and a daily BIBLE READER.

White Hawthorne Pythian Sisters Conduct Installation of Officers

The annual installation of officers of White Hawthorne Temple, No. 386, Pythian Sisters, Jeffersonville, was held Thursday evening in the Knights of Pythias Hall.

The officers installed were Mrs. Paula Mitchell, past chief, Mrs. Alice Knisley, most excellent chief; Mrs. Maxine Little, excellent senior; Mrs. Fred Craig, excellent junior; Mrs. Lillian Conner, manager; Miss Maude Routson, secretary; Mrs. Glenna Robinson, treasurer; Mrs. Ruth Williams, protector; and Mrs. Lee Marshall, outer guard.

The installing officer was Mrs. Mary Kemp, assisted by Mrs. Anna Combs, grand senior, and Mrs. Edith Knox, grand manager.

Mrs. Paula Knisley opened the meeting and very graciously thanked everyone who had made her year a happy one as most excellent chief. She received the past chief's pin from Miss Routson.

The hall was beautifully decorated with boughs of evergreen and pink candles.

The newly installed chief was presented a gift from her children, which she accepted with thanks and appreciation. In accepting her new office she asked for the same cooperation and continued support from the officers and members that had been so willingly given the past year. She pledged herself to her new office with "a feeling of humility and the wish for continued success."

A potluck supper was enjoyed by 36 officers and members following the close of the meeting.

The centerpiece on the table was a miniature wishing well. Gaily dressed dolls, representing the officers, were placed around the well. Each member received a doll as a favor.

Mrs. Mary Lee Keller, Mrs. Edith Knox and Mrs. Juanita Bartlett were in charge of the dining room.

Personals

Mr. and Mrs. Richard R. Willis Jr. and family have as weekend guests, Mr. and Mrs. Fred (Curly) Morrison of Columbus.

Sunnyside Club Meets Friday

Mrs. Hugh Smith entertained 16 members and two guests, Mrs. Verne Purcell and Mrs. Genevieve Whitmer, of the Sunnyside Working Women's Club, for their regular meeting Friday night.

Mrs. Smith presented the devotionals. She read the Scripture and a poem entitled "The Secret." She closed this period with prayer.

Mrs. Edgar Richardson, president, conducted the business session, during which the work committee reported that 18 comforters had been made and placed in needy homes last year, and three have been made and placed so far this year.

The remainder of the evening was spent in informal visiting and working on comforters.

Light refreshments were served by Mrs. Smith, assisted by Mrs. Willard Moore.

Thatchers Hosts To Church Class

The Friendship Class of the Sugar Grove Methodist Church met in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Thatcher Thursday night.

Mr. Gene Juillerat, president, opened the meeting with group singing.

The devotionals were presented by Mr. Willard Armbrust, who gave the Scripture reading.

The hymn "The Way of the Cross Leads Home" and prayer by the Rev. Harold Hugus closed the meeting.

During the social hour group singing was enjoyed, after which tempting refreshments were served by Mrs. Thatcher, assisted by Mrs. Emerson Carter, to 13 members.

Mrs. D'Andrea Honored With Layette Shower

Mrs. George Purple, Mrs. Herb Russell and Mrs. Fred Domenico honored Mrs. William D'Andrea with a layette shower at Anderson's Drive-In Wednesday night.

The beautifully wrapped packages were placed in a bassinette gaily decorated with a yellow and green motif.

Mrs. D'Andrea thanked everyone graciously for the gifts she received. A tempting dessert course was served.

Mrs. Edwards Hostess to Church Circle

The Women's Christian Circle of the South Side Church of Christ held its first meeting of the New Year in the home of Mrs. Donald Edwards Thursday night with 20 members present.

Mrs. Frank Creamer, president, opened the meeting by each member repeating the aim of the Circle, "To Uphold Christian Virtue," and the motto, "Be Ye Doers of the Word and Not Hearers Only." This was followed by the opening prayer.

The secretary's report was given by Mrs. Paul Smith and the treasurer's report by Mrs. Isaac Beedy. Mrs. Thomas Willis and Mrs. Guy Brooks were appointed to purchase material for baptismal robes, a project of the Circle.

Members were asked to bring pantry supplies and clothing to the church to be used in a basket for a needy family. Mrs. Sheldon Grubbs and Mrs. John Jordan will be in charge of this project.

A letter from the East Tennessee Christian Home, and also a personal letter from Deanne Paris, the "adopted" orphan girl from this home, were read. Plans were made to purchase a Valentine gift for the "adopted" girl. Mrs. Ronald Clay and Mrs. Charles Hooks are on this committee.

The devotional leader, Mrs. Hooks, used as her topic, "Looking Forward." She was assisted by Mrs. Nelson Secrests, using as her subject "Forgoing;" Mrs. Gene Beedy, "Willingness;" Mrs. Isaac Beedy, "Attitude;" Mrs. Hooks, "Redeeming the Time;" and Mrs. Grubbs, "Dutiful."

Mrs. Hooks closed devotionals with this thought: "In looking forward to using our time for God let us seek His guidance in all things. The Lord often puts a man 'down' on the flat of his back so he will look 'upward' to the Lord."

Group singing of hymns carrying the thought of each subject were enjoyed. Mrs. Beedy gave the closing prayer.

A duet, "I Don't Know about Tomorrow," by Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Hooks, closed the program.

Refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Creamer and Mrs. Brooks.

The next meeting has been scheduled for Feb. 14 in the home of Mrs. Isaac Beedy.

Ladies Bridge Luncheon Held

The Ladies Bridge Luncheon was held in the Country Club Thursday afternoon with eight tables in play.

Prizes in bridge were awarded to Mrs. Wash Lough, Mrs. Thomas H. Parrett and Mrs. Willis Coffman.

Special game prizes were presented to Mrs. J. J. Kelley and Mrs. McKinley Kirk.

Guests attending were Mrs. Parrett and Mrs. J. Willis Dick, both of Bloomingburg, and Mrs. Dick's mother, Mrs. Harry Goss, of Sparta, Ga.

Mrs. Martin Hughey and Mrs. Howard Fogle were the committee in charge of the luncheon.

Mrs. Duff Hostess To Garden Club

The Town and Country Garden Club met in the home of Mrs. Dwight Duff Wednesday night, with 14 members present.

Mrs. Wilbur Rapp conducted the business session in the absence of the president, Mrs. Gerald Stephenson.

Mrs. Richard Rankin was in charge of the program. She showed slides of Kingwood Gardens in Mansfield, which several members visited last year. Mrs. Rankin also showed many scenic slides of trips they have taken.

Tempting refreshments were served by Mrs. Duff, assisted by Mrs. Rapp.

Washington C. H. WCTU Meeting Set Friday

The Washington C. H. Women's Christian Temperance Union will meet in the home of Mrs. Homer Garringer at 10:30 a. m. Friday. A covered dish luncheon will be served at noon.

Mrs. Ester Madsen, Columbus, president of the Ohio WCTU, will be the afternoon speaker.

Transplanted Fashion Designer 'Follows the Sun'

By DOROTHY ROE
Assoc. Press Women's Editor

A fashion designer must know the locale of her designs, says Frances Sider, a transplanted New York now turning out sun - and surf styles in Miami.

For some 20 years, Mrs. Sider designed bathing suits and beach wear in a skyscraper office spang in the middle of the New York garment district.

When she looked out the window she saw other office buildings of concrete and steel, and far below the teeming, crowded canyons where trucks, taxis and people fought for space.

She was the first fashion designer to be granted a patent on the construction of a bathing suit — her famous "sunbody," which provided an inner foundation.

THEN ONE DAY Mrs. Sider grew tired of the scenery outside her office window and said, "The heck with it!" She packed up and departed for Florida with her young daughter, Pam, spent several years soaking up sunshine and atmosphere and then went back to her designing, in a bright, modern Miami salon where she can look out the window and see palm trees and tropical skies.

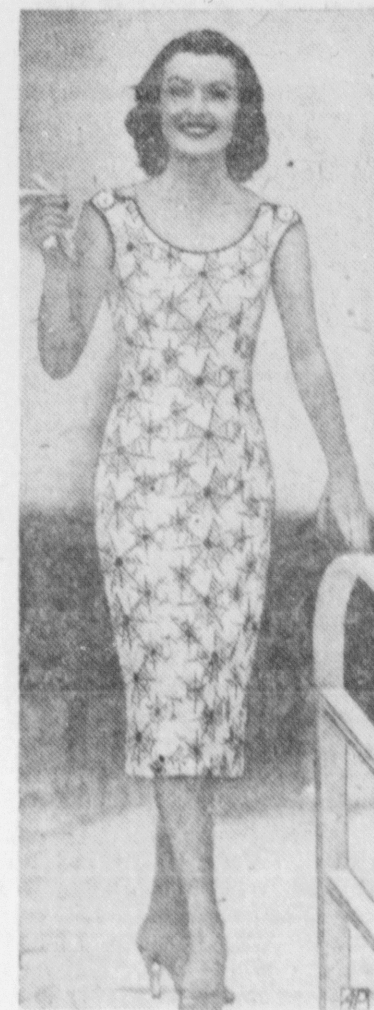

"It makes all the difference," says this veteran designer, "to live where your clothes are worn." "I've discovered the reasons for making swim suits in light, bright colors, for designing beach coats that protect you from sand and sun.

"I've found why girls like a skirt they can slip on over a bathing suit to make a sun dress, and I've learned what colors are most flattering to a sun - tanned skin. You can understand the theory of these things in New York, but you have to be on the spot to get the real feeling of what you're doing."

PARTY PETTICOAT . . . Easy to make in pella.

AP Newsfeatures

The lollipop set will have no part of the chemise. Little girls still like their party petticoats, holding out frothy full skirts.

But there's progress even in petticoats. Instead of many layers of ruffles to give the Alice - in - Wonderland look, modern misses are wearing a single pella petticoat.

There are enough frills and ribbons to make it festive, but the single layer eliminates bulk.

Local sewing center experts suggest making a party petticoat for your favorite little girl. Using a standard pattern, cut pella to

Cincinnati Heads OEA Study Group

COLUMBUS (AP)—Miss Jennie L. Davis of Cincinnati, Westwood elementary teacher, has been appointed chairman of the Personnel Standards Commission of the Ohio Education Assn.

The new seven-member group will administer standards and policies governing the ethical conduct of OEA's 60,000 teacher-members. In addition to making interpretations of the association's recently-revised code of ethics, the commission will adopt procedures for the making of studies into cases of alleged professional misconduct.

shape. There's no need to finish edges, since pella does not fray.

APPLY waistband with zigzag stitching. Then add decorative trimming, making use of the fancy stitches available with your automatic slant - needle sewing machine, or with the aid of the automatic zigzag attachment.

One bright idea is to trim the petticoat with rows of nylon ruffling with colored edging, with machine embroidery between the rows.

For a final touch, tack small ribbon bows here and there. This petticoat will retain its crispness indefinitely and will never need ironing or starching.

Jeff Takes Loop Lead In Bloomingburg Win

500 Fans Jam Bulldog Gym for Torrid Struggle

BLOOMINGBURG — Jeffers onville took over first place in the Fayette County League Friday, defeating Bloomingburg, 54-47, in a razzle-dazzle ball game that generated plenty of heat.

Jeff's Alva Hanners scored 13 points and picked up 20 rebounds for his team in the course of the game. But his spirit apparently got away with him at the very end, and he was ejected after a brief tussle with Bloomingburg's Don Hidy.

Quick action by the referees prevented what might have turned into a free-for-all. "He deserved it," Jeff Coach Bob Hildreth said of Hanners, commenting, "spirits were boiling over on both sides all evening."

And so they were. At least 500 fans jammed the large, modern Bloomingburg gym for the game the latest in a long rivalry. They looked on as two teams played some of the fastest, riskiest ball either has played all season.

BULLET PASSING by Dave Groves, shooting by Jim Smith, Hanners and Manfred Sizemore, and high-grade rebound work by Hanners and several others spelled victory for Jeffersonville.

A tight first quarter gave way to Jeff power in the second frame. And Jeff's shooting after the half was so regular and so accurate that the Tigers pushed into a 16-point margin at the end of the third quarter.

Bloomingburg's press rattled Jeff out of their long lead in the fourth frame, but it was too late to change the outcome.

Holding slight percentage averages both at the foul line and from the field, Jeff led Bloomingburg in both goals and free throws. But neither team was able to prevent a top-flight, sure-victory average.

JEFF HIT 21 out of 58 from the field for 36 per cent, and 12 out of 23, or 52 per cent from the gift box. Bloomingburg's field mark was 30 per cent—18 out of 55—while their foul line average was only 44 per cent—11 for 25.

Don Hidy, led his team in scoring with 11 points. Trailing close behind were Bob Riley with 10 and Jim Hidy with 9.

The Jeffersonville reserves trampled the Bulldog benchers, 46-20, in the prelin. John Ritenour and Jim Fradd scored 13 each for the Tigers. Fradd is a recent transfer from Bloomingburg.

Kid Kicks Football, Causes Mystery

FLINT, Mich. (AP)—Stanley Blood isn't interested in the concern his football has caused since Christmas Day. He just wants it back. The 9-year-old youngster got the ball as a Christmas gift. He could not wait to try it out.

Stanley booted the ball on Christmas day. The ball headed for his house, missed the windows and stuck to the asphalt siding.

The pigskin is still there. Why it hangs nobody can figure out. There's no nail or rough surface. Neighbors say it may be static electricity.

Anyway, Stanley wants his ball.

Bob Watson Leads Panama Golf Test

PANAMA (AP)—United States pro golfers, as expected, are monopolizing the $10,000 Panama Open but the fellow leading the pack with 36 holes remaining is somewhat of a surprise.

Bob Watson, veteran from Ardley-on-Hudson, N. Y., holds the top place today with a halfway total of 134. Watson assumed the lead in Friday's round with a 66.

Ed (Porky) Oliver of Canton, Mass., and Art Wall Jr., Pocono Manor, Pa., did Watson one better but their 65s left them a stroke behind at 135.

In the southern U. S. coastal states a gopher is a tortoise, in the prairie states it is one of several striped ground squirrels; in other localities it is a snake.

FAST-BREAKING Dave Groves makes an unsuccessful toss at the Jeff basket, while Bloomingburg's Kenny Anderson skids into place for the rebound.

Sabina Keeps Slate Clean Defeats Blanchester, 67-45

SABINA — Sabina's high-flying Golden Eagles brought themselves a step nearer statewide recognition Friday as a 67-45 win over powerful Blanchester enabled them to count their 15th straight victory and the eighth in the Clinton County league.

Lightweight Champ Eyes Lane Match

WASHINGTON (AP)—Lightweight Champion Joe Brown, TKO winner over Ernie Williams, today pondered his boxing future and said:

"It looks as though Lane is the logical contender."

He referred to Kenny Lane of Michigan, who has his entire state and the National Boxing Assn. booming him for a championship match.

"I'm in good shape," Brown said, "and I'm ready to fight him today. But that's up to my manager."

Brown's manager, Lou Viscusi, was in Houston, Tex., so neither Joe nor Kenny had an immediate answer.

Gilbert Jackson, NBA president, declared Friday Brown must arrange by April 11 for a bout with Lane or face loss of recognition.

Brown, who at 31 says he wants to retire after this year, had a hard time with Williams before winning on a fifth round technical knockout in their nontitle scrap Friday night.

Williams, a 21-year-old Washington prospect, was forced to quit at 1:17 of the round when ring physician John Kneipp said a deep cut over the left eye made it too risky to continue.

Lennie Ford OK After Operation

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP)—End Lennie Ford of the Cleveland Browns was reported in satisfactory condition today at University Hospital following surgery to repair torn muscles in his right shoulder.

Ford, a 10-year veteran of the National Football League and former University of Michigan player, underwent surgery Friday.

Hurricane Grabs First Place in SCO League Race

The Wilmington Hurricane huffed and puffed its way into first place in the South Central Ohio League Friday night, defeating Circleville, 75-64, while Washington C. H. was idle.

The Lion hoopers inactive Friday, had been tied with the Hurricane, 3-1, in league competition. The victory sets Wilmington up as top dog, and virtually eliminates Circleville from league contention.

Armed with an unorthodox 4-1 zone defense, with the "one" concentrating on Wilmington's Steve Rainer, Circleville hoped to catch the Hurricane with its points down.

BUT THE HOME TEAM would have none of it. Displaying unexpected versatility, they played as if Rainer wasn't there and built up a spanking 39-24 halftime lead. The Tigers came back in the second half with a press that didn't and couldn't recoup their earlier losses. With the 4-1 thrown to the winds, Rainer could come out of hibernation and he ended the night with a 27-point scoring total.

Ashville Edges Past New Holland, 65-63

NEW HOLLAND — Ashville burrowed into second place in the Pickaway County League Friday, pouncing past once-mighty New Holland, by a scant two points, 65-63.

It was the second straight loss for the Bulldogs, who previously had lost just once in 11 games. It gave the Ashville visitors nearly assured control of the spot above New Holland in the Pickaway County League.

Darby, victory over New Holland last week, still reigns supreme in the circuit.

NEW HOLLAND'S John Lininger stayed from start to finish Friday night and boosted his flagging average by hitting 27 points from the field and from the line. His scoring was buttressed by his rebounding and that of Charles Free and Ken Speakman.

New Holland led several times in the topsy-turvy contest, but at the periods—and at the all-important final gun—they trailed from one to five points.

The New Holland press defense shook up the opposition, but not enough to do the necessary damage.

Ashville's reserves made it a perfect night for the visitors, dropping the New Holland benchers, 39-34.

Mountaineers Due To Resume Title Defense

Furman To Attempt To Tilt Crown of No. 1 Rated Team

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
West Virginia's Mountaineers, idle for 10 days during a concentrated test of their classroom I.Q.'s, get back tonight to protecting their rating as the nation's best in college basketball.

The Mountaineers, No. 1 in The Associated Press poll since humbling North Carolina a month ago, shake off the rust against Furman in a Southern Conference game at Charlotte, N.C. Monday, they move to Durham against erratic Duke.

The Duke Blue Devils, although showing only a 5-5 record, could be a problem for West Virginia. It's doubtful Furman will, unless it can show some improvement from an earlier 105-67 loss to West Virginia.

Three other members of the top 10, Kansas State, Cincinnati and Oklahoma State, also get back to work tonight.

K-State, third-ranked nationally and leading the Big Eight conference over Kansas, is at Iowa State in a league game. Cincinnati, No. 4, is at home to Wichita in a bid to take over sole possession of first place in the jumbled Missouri Valley Conference. Oklahoma State, up to seventh on an 11-game streak since dropping its opener to Kansas, plays at North Texas State.

Co-featured in Cincinnati's test with Wichita is the attempt by the Bearcats' Oscar Robertson to maintain his lead in the national scoring race. The scoring soph from Cincy currently leads Kansas' Walt Chamberlain by one hundredth of a point, 32.43 to 32.42. Wilt and Kansas continue inactive until Feb. 3.

The San Francisco Dons were the only rated team in action Friday night, running their record to 13-1 and their winning streak to nine in a 67-37 romp over San Francisco State. The Dons are now No. 5.

Brigham Young boosted its skyline chances by upsetting Utah 81-67. Oregon State moved to within half a game of UCLA and California for first place in the Pacific Coast Conference by trouncing Washington 81-58.

Demaret, Venturi Pace Thunderbird

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP)—The $15,000 Thunderbird Invitational Golf Tournament got a little more into focus today with such solid golfers as Jimmy Demaret and young Ken Venturi leading the way into the third round.

Demaret made a bold bid to win his fourth victory in this event when he shot a 65, six strokes under par, Friday, and Venturi, a pro for only about 13 months, astonished the gallery with a 63.

Playing the 6,500-yard Thunderbird Country Club's par 36-35 71 course, Venturi had a 33-60-63 and Demaret 32-63. Demaret had a first round 68, Venturi a 70 and their total was 133.

Jim Fiddler Resigns

CINCINNATI (AP)—James C. Fiddler, resigned Friday as chief weather forecaster for the Crosley Broadcasting Corp. to become special assistant to the chief of the U. S. Weather Bureau at Washington.

Aussie Youth, 19, Runs 4-Minute Mile

MELBOURNE (AP)—Australian mile champion Herb Elliott ran his first below four minute mile when he was clocked in 3:59.9 at Olympic Park today.

Elliott, 19, is the youngest miler in the world to break the four-minute barrier.

Anthony's Defeat Warriors, 55-40

GOOD HOPE — Madison Mills got cozy Friday night, but Good Hope got cozier and succeeded in edging into a 55-40 victory, over the hapless Warriors.

It left the visitors, who sport a 5-9 overall record, trailing the Good Hope team in league standings, 1-4 to 2-3. Only a victory over Jeff next week could improve on that for the Braves.

Slowly and deliberately, Madison Mills ballplayers tried to find just the right spot at just the right time, to help run up just the right score. But Good Hope's defense (working from a 1-2-2) would not relax and outwaited them on more than one occasion.

Good Hope, on the other hand, worked an offense pattern that calls for easing the ball in past the defense, instead of taking set shots or layups. It worked, while the Madison strategy didn't.

Madison Mills' reserves added another sticker to their cap, though, dropping the Good Hope reserves, 35-28.

Big Ten Cage Leaders Idle This Week

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The top three teams in the Big Ten basketball race are idle because of semester examinations but a couple of other hopefuls, Northwestern and Michigan State, will be battling today to climb into second place.

Northwestern (2-2) will be at Michigan State (2-2) and the winner will move into a second place tie with Indiana and Ohio State, both with 3-2 records, one-half game behind league-leading Michigan (3-1).

Only one other conference game is scheduled today with Iowa at Minnesota in a regionally televised affair (4:30 p. m. EST). The Hawks (2-3) and Minnesota (1-2) are still nursing title hopes as are all conference teams in what is becoming one of the tightest races in years.

Michigan State will be favored over Northwestern since the Spartans defeated the Wildcats as Evanston last Saturday, 83-78. However, the Spartans were knocked off by Wisconsin, 66-52, Monday night.

Illinois will see action against Notre Dame in part of a Chicago Stadium doubleheader. The Illini have lost three straight after a Big Ten opening victory against Wisconsin. The other half of the doubleheader pits Marquette against Loyola of Chicago.

From a strategical standpoint in the Rock of Gibraltar in the Mediterranean is considered to be the greatest fortress in the world.

Beavers Returning To Hocking County

LOGAN — Beavers are moving back into the Hocking County hills. For the second time in a month, a beaver was seen there this week by Harley Poling, while he was inspecting timber along a creek not far from Logan. The exact was not revealed for the beaver's protection.

The other beaver, seen a couple of weeks ago, was returned to Scioto County, from which it had wandered, by state wildlife agents.

IT'S SO EASY TO PLACE A WANT AD.

Major League Territorial Rule Changes Predicted

NEW YORK (AP)—Cleveland General Manager Frank Lane said today he was willing to "bet all the tea in China" the Major Leagues today will make all cities with a two million or more population eligible for two big league teams.

Lane, a member of the four-man committee which recommended a set of new rules governing territorial and franchise changes, conceded there might be opposition from several American League clubs, but added such opposition would not affect the outcome of the vote.

"We know for certain that the National League will cast an unanimous vote in favor," Lane said. "Commissioner Ford Frick already has gone on record as being delighted with our recommendations. In case of a deadlock between the two leagues, Frick has the authority to cast the deciding vote. It doesn't take a genius to figure out the outcome."

Lane said he had talked with Dan Topping, co-owner of the New York Yankees, who assured him he was in favor of the proposal. Topping had previously declared he would seek to bar the National League from re-obtaining a franchise anywhere in New York City, excepting Brooklyn.

An informal poll of the American League clubs showed that Detroit was one of those opposed to the two-million population plan. Baltimore, New York and Kansas City were non-committal. Washington, Boston, Cleveland and Chicago were in favor. The two-million cities are New York, Chicago, Los Angeles, Philadelphia and Detroit. Only Chicago now has two teams.

Several stipulations are attached to the recommendations. The most important is that ball parks in any city must have seating capacities and other standards acceptable to the league and must be at least five miles apart. That, of course, would eliminate any possibility of a major league team in the Polo Grounds, which is less than a mile from Yankee Stadium.

A second club moving into former minor league territory that has been occupied by a major league team within the past five years—as in the case of the Dodgers in Los Angeles—must compensate the first big league team for 40 per cent of its expenses.

The committee was appointed by Frick at the winter meetings in Colorado Springs after a deadlock of the two teams on territorial rights. Each league was scheduled to meet this morning with a joint session to follow in the afternoon.

It was expected at least one or two player trades would be consummated this weekend before the officials departed for their respective homes.

Sewage Disposal Study Is Set for Chillicothe

CHILLICOTHE — Refinement in the processing of the city's sewage are the most pressing needs at the disposal works here, an investigation by city officials indicate.

The investigation was arranged so the city could make plans for remedying certain conditions at the plant as recommended by the Ohio Pollution Control Board.

Senate Candidate Files

COLUMBUS (AP)—The second candidate to announce for the Democratic nomination for U. S. senator is John J. Skurkaw of Avon Lake, an auto salesman. The other candidate is Stephen M. Young of Cleveland.

Trio Selects Cincy
For Robbery Trial

CINCINNATI — The three Anglin brothers, captured in Hamilton Wednesday morning, have decided to stand trial here on charges that they robbed the bank of Columbia, at Columbia, Ala., of $19,000 on Jan. 17.

Arraigned in U. S. District Court, they said they had changed their minds about being taken to Montgomery, Ala., for trial. They are Alfred and Clarence Anglin, escapees from the Florida State Penitentiary at Falford, Fla., and John Anglin of Ruskin, Fla.

The trio will be arraigned on formal bank robbery charges next week. The bond of each was continued at $20,000.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

AXYDLBAAXR
is LONGFELLOW

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Farm Bureau Township Units Name Officers

Three Now Organized And Seven Yet To Have Turkey Dinners

Three of the 10 township Farm Bureau units in the county elected their own officers and director of the Fayette County Farm Bureau this week—and the three have had their turkey dinners, which have come to be a tradition with the annual township meetings.

The members of these three townships also were given some of the highlights of the social security program, particularly as it affects farmers.

The three directors already named to the county board are Leland Dorn of Madison Township; Robert Pero of Concord Township; and Percie Kennell of Union Township.

These directors also are the chairmen of the township Farm Bureau units.

Other officers of the township units are: Madison—Homer Wilson, vice chairman and Lowell Hidy, secretary; Concord—Clyde Bower, vice chairman and Maurice Sollars, secretary; Union—Glenn Armstrong, vice chairman and David Carr, secretary.

THE OTHER three township Farm Bureau units yet to organize are Jasper, Paint, Jefferson, Wayne, Marion, Green and Perry. They will hold their turkey dinners and elections during the next two weeks.

After all the township units have named their directors, the Fayette County Farm Bureau will organize.

The Madison Township Farm Bureau held its turkey dinner and election in Grange Hall in Madison Mills Thursday. After dinner, two piano numbers were given by Lowell Hidy and recitations were given by Janine and John Gibeau, four and five year old children of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gibeau. Gary Hidy showed slides of pictures he had taken in France while stationed there with the Army.

Leon Kenner of the Chillicothe office explained some of the features of the Social Security program. He also showed a film to emphasize social security benefits to farmers and then answered questions.

The Concord Township meeting was held Tuesday in the Staunton School. At the tables for the turkey dinner were 65 members (a member includes the entire family).

Barton Montgomery presided at the meeting which followed the dinner. He reported that membership in the unit had reached 52; the goal for this year is 58.

Frank Sheehan of the Chillicothe staff described social security benefits for farmers and answered questions.

Sheehan also told the Union Township unit about social security at its meeting Wednesday evening in the Farm Bureau auditorium here.

Mrs. Gerald Stephenson, committee chairman, presented the program of entertainment following the turkey dinner: a vocal solo by Gary Arnold; a number of Jeffersonville High School majorettes, Sue McDonald and Carolyn Yoakum; numbers by a Clarksburg High School quartette of Ann Timmons, Janice Whitten, Patti Norris and Sue Albert, with Mrs. Mary McGhee the piano accompanist; a majorette solo by Deffie Beekman; a duet by Janice Whitten and Patti Norris of the Clarksburg Grange; a majorette duet by Karen Carter and Marilyn Ancey and a majorette solo by Nancy Stephenson.

Crippled Seaplane Sets Speed Mark

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP)—A Navy Tradewind which crashed landed at Alameda Naval Air Station Friday claimed a new Honolulu-Alameda speed record for seaplanes despite loss of one engine.

None of the 17 on the training mission was hurt as the plane slammed into the breakwater after landing in San Francisco Bay. About 350 miles from the mainland, one of the propellers was thrown by its 5,500-horsepower jet turbine engine, slashing a hole in the hull below the waterline.

The Navy said the Tradewind's 5 hours and 54 minutes bettered the old record for a seaplane, also set by a Tradewind, at 6 hours and 54 minutes.

Cleveland Police Shakeup Said Set

CLEVELAND (AP)—Chief Frank Story is expected to be ousted in a general shakeup of the city's Police Department, the Cleveland Plain Dealer said today.

Robert C. Greenhalgh, 33, a former FBI agent and now assistant safety director, will probably succeed Story, according to the Plain Dealer account.

A recent sharp increase in crime and a growing number of unsolved homicides may have spurred the predicted shakeup, City Hall observers said. But Mayor Anthony Celebrezze said he knew of no changes except ordinary transfers. Safety Director John N. McCormick declined comment.

CUB PACK 32

Fifty-seven parents and Cub Scouts were present Friday evening at the Farm Bureau Auditorium for the meeting of Cub Pack 32. Eugene Heath, cubmaster was in charge of the program, and skits were presented by the three dens.

Marvin Thornburg, district Scout commissioner, spoke to the Cub Scouts and parents about the importance of Scouting and the advantages it brings to the family. Thornburg stated that one of the main purposes is to bring the parents into contact with the Scouts in the many projects they undertake.

Awards were presented to the Cub Scouts by their parents. Those receiving them were: Bobcat pins: Lyle Sowders Jr., Maynard Campbell, Eric Johns, Larry Ruhl, John Beuchler, Patrick Denen and Roger Pugh.

Bobcat and Wolf pins: Ray Steen, Roger Whaley, Chuck Howe, Robby Rodefeis, Darrell Anderson, Billy Baer, David Eckle, Dennis Hallows and Michael Henry.

Bobcat and Wolf pins, plus gold and silver arrow points: Dickie Dwyer, Steve Heath, Bob Heath, Dale Moore and Earl Stratton.

Den Mothers for the three dens are Mrs. Louis Baer, Mrs. Elton Anderson, Mrs. Fred Ruhl, Mrs. Joseph Henry and Mrs. Virgil Dwyer.

Refreshments were served following the meeting.

At Age 41, He Plans To Enter Ministry

HUNTINGTON, W. Va. (AP)—At the age of 41, Paul B. Childers is quitting his job in the accounting department of the Owens-Illinois Glass Co. and going back to school to study for the ministry.

Childers will leave Huntington Monday to enter the Cincinnati Bible Seminary.

Sunday will be Paul Childers Day at the Sixth Avenue Church of Christ, where he has been sponsor of the high school youth group for seven years.

$10,000 Fire Destroys Barn

Sow, 17 Pigs Killed At Cockerill Farm

Greenfield firemen fought nearly two hours to put out a $10,000 blaze that destroyed a 60 by 30 foot barn on the Robert Cockerill farm, Walnut Creek Rd., Friday night.

A sow and 17 pigs were destroyed in the fire, which was started by an electric heater left in the barn to keep the pigs warm.

Firemen succeeded in getting the blaze under control before it spread to a tenant house next door, occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Kimball.

The first alarm went in at 5:27 p. m. Greenfield tanker and pumpers crews succeeded in insulating the fire from the house within 20 minutes after they arrived, but they weren't back in the fire house until after 8 p. m.

Tanker and pumper crews from the Concord—Green Twp. volunteer fire department stood by, but were not pressed into service.

Equipment lost in the blaze included a combine, a grain drill, a three-bottom tractor plow, a corn cultivator and about one thousand bales of hay and straw. Cockerill, who is a Fayette County Commissioner, said the loss was partially covered by insurance.

NINE HEAD of cattle and two sheep were saved from the barn, along with four of five sows in the barn when the blaze broke out. The fifth was taken out, but she went back when she heard her pigs squealing, Cockerill said.

Despite quick service by the Greenfield department, fire spread so fast that the barn roof caved in just minutes after the first crews arrived.

Cockerill said "some kind" of barn will be constructed on the property, although he said it will not be done until summer. Stock will be stored elsewhere on his farm holdings until then, he said.

Rio de Janeiro Prepares for Gala Carnival

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP)—Rio de Janeiro's millions are preparing for carnival time.

The world famous carnival, with its pulse-quickenig sambas, scanty costumes and lack of inhibitions, is to many Brazilians a major reason for existence.

The three-day carnival actually won't begin until Feb. 15. But since the first of the year, groups of dancers have been parading through the heavily populated Copacabana area, stopping traffic, beating drums and singing popular carnival songs.

The preview is nothing compared to what is to come. Many Rio citizens will be spending money saved for a whole year for elaborate carnival costumes. The elaborate Rio citizens, called cariocas, will pour into the streets Feb. 15 for celebrations marking the pre-Lenten period. All traffic in the center of the city will halt.

The police, probably the only ones who dread carnival, have already issued their stern rules, not likely to be fully enforced.

Those dressed in Bikini bathing suits and shorts will not be allowed to attend the many carnival dances scheduled every night, so say the police. But, in the past, the beauties, only a few stitches away from total exposure, have smiled their way past police.

As one Brazilian put it: "Carnival is love, and joy and many, many other things."

Students Protest Inadequate School

GADSDEN, Ala. (AP)—Students of the upper six grades at Gaston High School want a new building. They have staged a strike to emphasize their view.

They say the building, constructed 30 years ago, is too cold, has inadequate facilities.

More than 100 pupils went out on strike Thursday. The six grades have an enrollment of 167. Coal stoves heat the building, and toilets are provided in a building behind the school. Samuel H. Dabbs, school superintendent, says no funds are available for improvements, which would cost about $250,000.

Parents of the strikers planned to meet to talk things over.

Deaths, Funerals

Mrs. Hazel Flowers Baker

Mrs. Hazel Flowers Baker, 64, of 618 Columbus Ave., died at 10 a. m. Saturday in Memorial Hospital. She had been in failing health for 18 months and seriously ill for the last two months.

Although she was born in Champaign, Ill., she had spent most of her life in Washington C. H. She was employed for many years at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base, but for the last four years, prior to retirement because of her health, she had been with the Division of Aid in Columbus.

She was a member of Grace Methodist Church.

Her husband, Morris Baker preceded her in death.

Her closest surviving relatives are a brother, Ace Flowers of Washington C. H. and several nieces and nephews.

Services will be held at 1:30 p. m. Tuesday in the Kirkpatrick Funeral Home here by the Rev. L. J. Poe, pastor of Grace Church. Burial will be in the Washington C. H. Cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home after 7 p. m. Sunday.

WARREN M. ARTHUR—Services for Warren M. Arthur, former New Holland mayor who died in a Columbus hospital Wednesday, were held in the Kirkpatrick Funeral Home in New Holland at 2 p. m. Friday by the Rev. Glenn Robinson, pastor of the Methodist Church.

Pallbearers were Clyde Lawrence, Stewart Arthur, John Arthur, Edward Rose, Joseph Gooley and Ray Stewart.

Burial was in the South Charleston Cemetery.

Postmaster Warning On Postal Deficits

WASHINGTON (AP)—Postmaster General Summerfield says that if Congress does not raise postal rates soon it may be necessary to ask another $5 billion increase in the national debt ceiling.

This would be in addition to the $5 billion increase to $280 billion which President Eisenhower asked and which the House passed Thursday.

Summerfield told the Senate Postoffice Committee the postal deficit has totaled $6 billion since the end of World War II.

$9½ Million Approved For Lockbourne Work

WASHINGTON (AP)—An allocation of $9,595,000 for construction at Lockbourne Air Force Base in Ohio will be used for a hospital, runway and taxiway improvements, maintenance, storage and electric facilities.

Sen. Bricker (R-Ohio) said the Air Force told him the Budget Bureau released the money, but that no details were given on the construction program, expected to start this year.

Chauffeur for Mayors Says Job Too Tough

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Jake Zorn, 65, a bit weary after 26 years of chauffeuring St. Louis mayors, was transferred at his own request: Friday to a softer job—driving a fire truck.

"I've seen mayors when they didn't have anything to do," said Zorn, who has served six. "Today the mayor has more to do than all of them. Driving the mayor's car is for a younger man."

FIRE DAMAGES AUTO

Fire in the wiring damaged an auto owned by C. J. Carpenter of Celina about 11:05 a. m. Saturday on the CCC Highway a mile and one half west of here. Washington C. H. firemen, who answered the call, said damage was confined to the area beneath the dash.

Abraham Lincoln was an enthusiast for new inventions. In the U. S. Patent Office is the model of an invention that Lincoln patented in 1849, a bellows device for lifting ships over shallow shoals.

Dayton Store Owner Dies of Gun Shot

DAYTON (AP)—Found lying in the street with a .45 caliber bullet wound in his head, a Dayton appliance store operator died today in Miami Valley Hospital.

Police identified the man as Faustin R. Ereitenstein, 46. He was found at 1:15 a. m. and was rushed to the hospital, where he died more than an hour later.

The Detective Bureau of the Dayton Police Department said an investigation has begun.

Harris Willis Trustee of Forestry Assn.

Harris Willis, 422 Jupiter St., head of the Willis Lumber Co. here, was one of the 10 trustees elected for the Ohio Forestry Assn. at its 55th annual meeting in Columbus Friday.

Ohio's director of natural resources told the gathering that farm woodlots generally "are in need of better management."

Herbert B. Eagon, principal speaker at the session, pointed out that 57 per cent of Ohio's 5,396,000 acres of woodland are in farm woodlots.

The association heard from a committee of Ohio woodland owners, reporting how to increase economic returns to the farm woodlot owner. A study was suggested on methods by which small forest owners, either singly or by collective groups, can market their products to the best advantage.

Awards for outstanding contributions toward conservation program in 1957 went to James K. Davis of Logan and Timothy Hahn of Maple Heights, in the junior division; and to S. C. Allyn, Dayton, F. W. Dean, Wooster, A. W. Marion, Pickerington, and Robert Taylor, Cleveland, in the senior division.

Greenfield Firms Plan Expansion

GREENFIELD — Two Greenfield manufacturing companies are needing more plant space, their officials told the industrial committee of the Chamber of Commerce.

Wilson Moon, of the Greenfield Printing and Publishing Co., showed the committee sketches of a proposed new plant his firm hopes to build at North and Eighth Sts. The new building, he said, would provide ample space for operations and warehouse and permit it to vacate part of the Ferno Mfg. Co. building which it now leases for storage and offset printing operations.

Elroy Bourgraf of the Ferno Mfg. Co. told the committee his company is using only a portion of its building at Sixth and Vine Sts. for the manufacture of cots, stretchers and other equipment for emergency vehicles, hospitals and funeral homes, and that it now needs the remainder of the building which is under lease to the Greenfield Printing and Publishing Co. to take care of its expansion program.

Ohio Laundry Pay Scale 'Too Low'

COLUMBUS (AP)—Persons working in Ohio laundries can make as little as 27½ cents an hour, and dry cleaning workers as little as 35 cents an hour, the Ohio Committee for Minimum Wage has charged.

It's because of these minimum wage levels, unchanged since the early 1930s, that many women and children working in Ohio's laundry and dry cleaning trades have to get help from relief agencies, a state official was told Friday.

Hugh D. Wait, director of industrial relations, was presented with petitions bearing more than 1,400 names from 15 counties, asking that wage boards be named in those trades.

4-H Club Activities

MAGIC MAKERS

The Magic Makers 4-H club held its first meeting of the year in the home of their leader, Mrs. Billy Wilson, Thursday afternoon.

Juliana Wilson, past president, opened the meeting. Maggie Hurtt and Kitty Sagar were welcomed as new members.

The pledges to country and 4-H Club were given, followed by the election of officers.

Kitty Sagar was elected president; Sally Loudner, vice president; Margie Hurtt, secretary; Hannah Case, treasurer; Pamela Rhoads, news reporter; and Juliana Wilson, recreation leader.

The appointed leaders were Linda Cahall, health and safety, and Linda Lucas, pledge, contact and cheer.

It was decided that meetings will be held the second and fourth Thursday of each month.

The members voted to fill "heart packets" again this year and to contribute $10 to the Fayette County Council for Retarded Children.

Plans for making money were discussed and it was decided to sell chewing gum. Projects for the coming year were selected.

The junior leaders for the club are Pat Hagen and Jowanda Wilson.

The hostess, Juliana Wilson, served refreshments.

MENDERS AND BLENDEES

President Glenellyn Stultz open the third meeting of the Menders and Blendees with the pledge to the flag and read the 4-H pledge. The roll call was answered by naming a character or book in the Bible. Secretary Sharon McCoy read the minutes.

Devotions were read by Carol Noble, followed by the treasurer's report from Penny Noble. A safety quiz was presented by Patti Jo Merritt.

Sewing demonstrations were given by Aneda Byrd, Patti Jo Merritt and Shirley Parrett. Mrs. Lewis Parrett, the adviser, gave suggestions for presenting a good demonstration.

The singing was led by Linda Parrett and recreation by Jo Ann Mossbarger and Shirley Parrett. Brenda Huff, Sharon McCoy and Penny Noble served refreshments to the 18 members present.

Only One Accident Despite Bad Weather

Only one minor accident was reported during 24 hours of icy and rainy weather here Friday and Saturday.

David R. Sommers, 19, of Greenfield, told Sheriff Orland Hays his car hit an icy spot about 7:50 a. m. Saturday, causing him to skid through a fence off Route 70 south.

The fence was on a farm belonging to Mrs. Max G. Dice, 513 Leesburg Ave. The left front fender of the auto was damaged.

Wide Variety Selected for Piano Concert

A varied program, ranging from early Italian music to ultra-modern compositions, has been selected by Miss Joy Strausbaugh, Oberlin Conservatory graduate student of piano, who will present the first of two concerts arranged by the Sunday Musicale Group in the Washington High School auditorium Tuesday night.

Miss Strausbaugh, whose home is in Vevay, Ind., is well known here. The concert will begin at 8 p. m.

Advance ticket sales have been good, according to Mrs. Robert E. Willis, general chairman for the concerts.

USHERS will be the Misses Jane Davis, Karen Ware and Anne Craig, along with George Garinger, while Howard Perrill, Louis Baer and Steven Herbert will assist. John Sagar Sr. is in charge of ticket sales and Mrs. Milbourne Flee is serving as general secretary.

Much of the advance ticket sale was handled by approximately 135 guarantors.

The second concert in the series will be presented by the 40-piece Little Symphony Orchestra of Chillicothe which will appear in the WHS auditorium Feb. 25.
